Foreword to the Third Edition

The GST & Indirect Taxes Committee of ICAI has always been proactive in providing the needed support to the members and honing their skills by organising courses, conferences and programmes, live webcasts, e-learning etc. on GST. Further, it has been regularly bringing out useful technical publications on various aspects of GST.

I am happy to note that the Committee has revised its publication namely, "Handbook on Exempted Supplies under GST" to incorporate the recent amendments made in the provisions relating to exemptions prescribed under GST law. The Handbook discusses various exemptions relating to goods and services along with their applicability and implication.

Preface to the Third Edition

The power to grant exemption from payment of tax has been provided to the Government under section 11 of the CGST Act, 2017 and section 6 of the IGST Act, 2017. Deriving power from these provisions, numerous notifications have been issued till date exempting various supplies of goods and/or services from payment of tax either unconditionally or upon fulfilment of specific conditions. Generally, exemptions are granted to supplies of goods and / or services which are for public good, or which have traditional, social or economic importance, or which are necessities/daily needs of people, or to promote specific Government policies and the like. Exemptions are also granted to several classes of goods and / or services bearing in mind trade compulsions between Countries.

Considering the significance of the provisions related to exemptions, the GST & Indirect Taxes Committee published a “Handbook on Exempted Supplies under GST” in the year January 2019 which was then revised in the year February 2020. The various handbooks released by the Committee are one among the many initiatives of the Committee undertaken towards its objective of GST knowledge dissemination. The provisions related to the chosen topic are collated, explained and analysed in such handbooks for easy comprehension of all the interested stakeholders.

That GST law is extremely dynamic and is prone to frequent changes is not a matter of surprise and is known to all and sundry. Accordingly, in view of the amendments made in the provisions related to exemptions, the GST & Indirect Taxes Committee has revised this “Handbook on Exempted Supplies under GST”. The law stated in this Handbook is updated till 15th January, 2023.

We are thankful to CA. (Dr.) Debashis Mitra, President, ICAI and CA. Aniket Sunil Talati, Vice-President, ICAI for their continuous encouragement and support for the various endeavours of the GST & Indirect Taxes Committee. We acknowledge with our deepest gratitude the efforts of CA. (Dr.) Gaurav Gupta in revising the Handbook. We would also like to thank the members of our Committee who have always been part of all our endeavours. Last but not the least, we commend the efforts made by the Secretariat of the Committee in providing the requisite technical and administrative assistance in the revision exercise.

Though all efforts have been taken to provide the correct and legitimate position in this Handbook, there can be different views/opinions on the various issues addressed to in this Handbook. We request the readers to bring to our notice any inadvertent error or mistake that may have crept in during the revision of this Handbook. We will be glad to receive your valuable feedback.

We are positive that readers will use this book to their advantage in fulfilling their professional duties appropriately. We request you to visit our website <https://idtc.icai.org> and make use of other available technical/educational resources on GST to increase your knowledge base in GST.

Foreword to the Second Edition

Every tax structure has few exceptions imbibed in it due to some socio-economic or other reasons, resulting into few supplies or services remained exempt from tax and Goods and Services Tax (GST) is not a devoid of it. Numerous exemptions exist in GST regime also. Exemption may be conditional or unconditional, wholly or partially, specific activity / goods, specific person etc. Merely knowing the Exemption list is not sufficient, understanding and analyzing of the intricacies involved is a prerequisite to determine its applicability and implication as wrong application may attract tax liability.

In order to facilitate members and other stakeholders in keeping abreast of available exemptions under GST, GST & Indirect Taxes Committee of the ICAI has revised its "Handbook on Exempted Supplies under GST". This handbook embraces analysis of various important elaborative exemption provisions in addition to principle and classification of exemption.

I am confident that this Handbook will give a quick and apt insight of all the exemptions available under GST regime and will be of great significance to our members. I really appreciate the efforts put in by CA. Sushil Kumar Goyal, Chairman and CA. Rajendra Kumar P, Vice-Chairman and other members of the GST & Indirect Taxes Committee of ICAI for revising this exclusive publication on Exemptions under GST.

I wish the readers a fruitful and knowledge enriching experience.

Preface to the Second Edition

Supply is a taxable event in GST, which has enlarged the ambit of GST in comparison to erstwhile indirect tax laws. In spite of a particular transaction being covered in the definition of supply, one needs to check whether such supply of goods and/or services is exempt from tax, for determining the liability to pay GST. Exempt supply has been defined as supply of any goods or services or both which attracts nil rate of tax or which may be wholly exempt from tax and includes non-taxable supply. Powers to grant exemption from GST are contained in section 11 of the CGST Act and section 6 of the IGST Act through notification and a number of notifications have been issued under these sections.

Considering the paramount importance of exemptions under GST, the GST & Indirect Taxes Committee has revised its exclusive “Handbook on Exempted Supplies under GST”. The handbook contains various aspects of exemption, classification, principles of exemption, procedural aspects and detailed analysis of various exemptions available under GST along with illustrations in easy and lucid manner.

We thank CA. Prafulla Chhajed, President and CA. Atul Kumar Gupta, Vice-President, ICAI for providing support in this initiative. We appreciate the dedicated efforts of CA. D S Agarwala, CA. Arun Kumar Agarwal, CA Shubham Khaitan and CA. Abhishek Aggarwal for revising this publication. We also appreciate the efforts put in by the entire Secretariat of GST & Indirect Taxes Committee.

We are confident that readers in the field would find this handbook immensely useful. The readers are encouraged to provide suggestions for the improvement of this guide at gst@icai.in.

Foreword to the First Edition

Goods and Services Tax (GST), which is a comprehensive tax on supply of goods or services or both, has been implemented from 1st July, 2017. Every tax has few exceptions due to some socio economic reasons or other, due to which few supplies or services remains exempt from tax. Taxpayers are required to fully understand and analyse the exemption provisions before applying the same. Wrong application of exemption provisions may affect the business as GST needs to be collected and deposited and mere knowing the Exemption list is not sufficient but its implication and condition of exemption is equally important. It is also important to note that exemption sometimes given to the specific person e.g. Government whereas sometimes specific activity / goods only being exempted eg. agriculture.

In order to facilitate members and other stakeholders in understanding the exemptions under GST, Indirect Taxes Committee of ICAI has decided to bring out E-publication on “Exempted Supplies under GST”. An explicit approach has been embraced in this E-publication for providing a crisp and precise view of elaborative provisions in relation to exempted supply of goods and services. Various important exemptions have been thoroughly analysed in addition to principle and classification of exemption.

I appreciate the efforts put in by CA. Madhukar N. Hiregange, Chairman, CA. Sushil Kumar Goyal, Vice-Chairman and other members of the Indirect Taxes Committee of ICAI for bringing out E-publication on Exemptions under GST.

I am sure our members and others professionals in the field would find this publication immensely useful.

Preface to the First Edition

When a supply of goods and/or services falls within the purview of charging section, such supply is chargeable to GST. However, for determining the liability to pay tax, one needs to further check whether such supply of goods and/or services are exempt from tax. Exempt supply has been defined as supply of any goods or services or both which attracts nil rate of tax or which may be wholly exempt from tax and includes non-taxable supply. Power to grant exemption from GST has been granted vide section 11 of the CGST Act and vide section 6 of the IGST Act.

Considering the importance of exemptions under GST, Indirect Taxes Committee has come up with exclusive publication namely “E-publication on Exempted Supplies under GST”. The E-publication aims to give a brief of the history of Exemption under erstwhile law, its applicability and impact on the economy. It broadly covers aspects related to registration, supply, documents, E way bill and records required in case of Exempted Supplies. Various important exemptions have also been discussed in detail. The provisions have been explained in an easy language and possible practical examples/ illustrations have been given for easy and quick interpretation.

We thank CA. Naveen N.D Gupta, President and CA. Prafulla Chhajed, Vice – President, ICAI for giving us the space to deliver and support for this initiative. We appreciate the dedicated efforts of CA. Gaurav Gupta, CA. S. Venkatramani, CA. Virender Chauhan, CA. Jatin Harjai, CA Yash Daddha, CA. Shubham Aggarwal for drafting this publication. Background of Exemption

1. Introduction to Exemptions

The word exemption as commonly understood means a privilege. It can also mean freedom from fetters. According to P Ramanatha Aiyar's Law Lexicon (Fourth Edition as Revised by Shri. Shakil Ahmad Khan) the word "exempt" means putting a person beyond the application of law. It further says that when the word exempt or exemption is used in taxation parlance it means – (i) precluding from being chargeable and (ii) immune from a liability, obligation or penalty.

Exemption and non-liability are normally different from each other. For instance, while computing the gross turnover :-

- (a) exempted turnovers are includible in gross turnovers and thereafter subject to a deduction; and
- (b) in case of non-liability the question of inclusion in gross turnovers does not arise.

A levy or tax is imposed by a taxing statute. The very same statute could also provide for exemption. Over the last 2 to 3 decades the word exemption has been colloquially used in taxing statutes in many ways – for example – Non-Taxable, Negative list, 'NIL rated' etc. It is common for people to understand that zero-rate means exempt which is incorrect. Exemption may also be understood by some as a situation when a statute provides for certain thresholds before the taxability arises. Many a times, the tax payers confuse concessional rates with exemptions.

Normally, it is the State and / or the Central Government (or in appropriate cases Union Territories) which grant exemptions. Such, exemption can be granted - (i) conditionally (ii) generally (iii) through Government orders (iv) under special circumstances (v) through notifications (vi) by way of circulars (vii) by way of tax holidays (viii) to specific class (or kind) of goods and / or services (ix) to specific class of persons (x) for a specific time frame or with a cap on value (xi) to specified transactions etc. It can also be granted in any combination of the above since it is the prerogative of the Government.

Exemption provisions or rules ought to be enacted / administered and also read strictly. In case of any ambiguity the intention of the Legislature ought to be strictly borne in mind and given effect to. Generally, the language employed in the construction of an exemption statute must be (i) unambiguous (ii) clear (iii) strictly interpreted (iv) within the powers of the legislating / issuing authority and (v) cater to the intent of the legislature etc.

Exemptions could be granted prospectively, or in certain situations / circumstances retrospectively. Any such enactment must be within the Constitutional framework while bearing in mind the Legislative delegation. Referential legislations in respect of grant of exemptions must be generally avoided considering their complexity. Exemptions which commence during a year must be so enacted to take care of “pipeline transactions”. Exemptions with sunset clauses must be properly framed. The GST laws also provide for exemptions. This booklet discusses several aspects of such exemptions.

2. Brief history of exemptions under the erstwhile laws

It is important to understand the scheme of taxation of the Government (State or Central) to understand the nuances of exemptions. Normally, goods and / or services relating to traditional, social and economic importance, daily needs / necessities and Government policies qualify for the exemption. For example, under the Service Tax Regulations while clinical services and education services found favour for grant of exemption, many of the State Governments may have granted exemption in respect of sale of life saving drugs or books meant for reading. Similarly, many States, may have granted exemptions in respect of sale of food grains while agricultural services stood exempted.

The Constitution itself provided safeguards from the levy in respect of certain goods / services from the wrath of taxation like for instance Electricity, Newspapers etc. Apart from the nature of exemptions cited in the introductory part of this Booklet, broadly, exemptions (among others) granted by the State or Centre under the erstwhile laws could be traced to the following:

- (a) Public interest or general public good.
- (b) Goods of traditional, social and cultural importance, daily needs etc.
- (c) Growth of a particular class or kind of industry in a particular area in a State or union Territory.
- (d) Development of a State / Union Territory.
- (e) Objectives or policies of a State / Union Territory.
- (f) Imports of goods and / or services were granted exemptions to make exports competitive thereby resulting in foreign exchange earnings.

Exemptions were also granted to several classes of goods and / or services bearing in mind trade compulsions between Countries.

Under the erstwhile laws, exemptions provided were the subject matter of several rounds of litigations. This is because the statute (among other factors / issues) was:

- (i) ambiguous and there did not exist clarity;
- (ii) not properly drafted resulting in classification issues;
- (iii) so understood that the essence or intent of legislature was not captured correctly;
- (iv) so understood by either party that resulted in incorrect interpretation or grant of exemptions;
- (v) neither workable nor effective;

- (vi) so drafted with too many conditions paving the way for - reading down, addition or substitution of words, providing natural or grammatical meaning, too many technical terms resulting in dilution of the language employed etc;
- (vii) so drafted causing hardship, inconvenience, injustice to a class or kind of persons or infringed upon the freedom of trade;
- (viii) causing anomaly or absurdity in the basic understating warranting judicial interference.

Despite the above issues that plagued exemptions, it must be said that the Governments have played a pivotal role in the grant of exemptions resulting in growth of industry and economy. Importantly, there were several exemption provisions that were drafted by way of references to other Statutes, which resulted in uncalled for difficulty in interpretation. Compliances for the purpose of availment of exemptions was always a painful process under the erstwhile laws.

Exemptions granted under the erstwhile laws had an array of issues such as:

- (a) Exemptions with input tax credits
- (b) Exemptions without input tax credits
- (c) Exemptions with restricted input tax credits
- (d) Exemptions that came with conditions / compliances etc.

Trade and industry were very sceptical in availing exemptions under the erstwhile laws. This was because, denial of exemption on grounds that could be flimsy to highly technical interpretation resulted in extraordinary consequences for the trade. There are several instances where the tax consequences have been so great that the industry ceased to survive. Some of the words or phrases under the erstwhile laws that have resulted in huge litigations were “may”, “shall”, “must”, “should”, “prima facie”, “subject to”, “issue of Government order to be notified (in many cases words in GO are different from words in the notification)”, “public interest”, “promissory estoppel” etc. The list is endless.

There are several instances where the effective date of exemption notification itself has been questioned apart from questioning the intent of the Legislature. Thus, it would be fair to state that trade looked at an exemption notification with abundant caution and in several instances, had foregone the exemption simply because the consequences of availing an exemption and its denial at a later date will have disastrous consequences. It was well understood that indirect tax laws contained clauses relating to collection of taxes, which were machinery in nature. So long as the consumer / customer could afford the impact of tax, or if the tax so charged was available as input tax credit in the hands of the buyer / recipient, the taxes stood passed on.

Nevertheless, it would be fair to state that despite all these, under the erstwhile laws exemptions have played a key role in the growth of several classes of industries and resulted in enormous public good.

3. Impact of exemptions on the economy

There is a raging debate going on in India and across as to whether providing exemptions be it “direct tax” or “Indirect tax” would do good to the economy. There is also another school of thought that exemptions do no public good and in fact cause harm to the economy. The fact is that, Governments across the world realise that it is the single most important problem. Some economists opine that:

- the tax to GDP ratio will not go up until exemptions are reduced;
- exemptions push up the compliance costs;
- exemptions lead to unfair practices; and cause uncalled for litigation while legitimising tax avoidance;
- exemptions help the rich and affluent and large industries and do not result in achieving the desired results;
- exemptions cost the exchequer prohibitively; and
- exemptions hinder free trade while helping very few.

Exemptions granted by one country may affect the international trade of another country thus affecting the economies of different regions and countries. While debating on the economics of exemption the questions that often arise are:

- (a) Should exemptions be restricted only for public good?
- (b) Should exemptions be granted only in case of sunrise industries or industries in backward areas?
- (c) Should exemptions be restricted to goods of daily necessities or for goods and / or services relating to traditional, social and cultural importance?
- (d) Should exemption be granted only if it meets with the national objectives – say infra projects, health and education sectors etc.

The terms “exemption” and “exclusion” both refer to provisions that exempt some or all the value of goods or services from taxation. Exemptions reduce the taxable value to zero. Exclusions can do the same, or they can reduce the taxable value by a certain percentage or by a flat value. Exemptions and exclusions affect the taxable value and not the rate. The fact is that an exemption directly impacts the exchequer; whereas it is extremely difficult to lay down measures or mechanisms to ensure the achievement of the desired result. Any denial of exemption in respect of goods and / or services that affects the end price of a product or service of a consumer will most certainly reflect on the Government of the day. It is for this reason that economists are debating as to whether subsidy would be a better option as compared to exemption of either goods and / or service since the benefit would be traceable.

It is important to understand that an exemption provided by the Centre may not affect the State (under the erstwhile laws) but it does so in a GST regime. It is for this reason that States have been seeking trimming of exemptions. The exemption does not solely cover information held by public authorities concerned with the management of the economy or economic development. Some examples of how exemption affects the economy are:

- (i) As a major customer, employer and investor.
- (ii) Planning – at both local and national level, for example, transport policies, airports.
- (iii) Social, health, environmental policy – for example, public transport versus private car use.
- (iv) Planning or managing the economy – through setting or influencing interest rates, taxation, currency rates, controls on public spending, etc.
- (v) Political considerations – for example, trade embargos.
- (vi) Intended investment strategies.
- (vii) Finances of public corporations.

It is important to note that the Government cannot legislate for one person's prosperity by granting an exemption while taxing another. Exemptions derail the tax chain causing tax distortions and uneven economic activity. Over the years exemptions have been granted by the States / Centre depending on the pulls and pressures of politics. It has definitely a dampening effect on the economy. An important aspect of exemptions that has to be borne in mind is that somebody is paying for another's gain. It is for this reason that there have been studies undertaken by the Government to provide exemptions only on a scientific and need basis rather than on the politics of the State or Centre. Given this situation one can expect that exemptions are short lived and will be pruned over a period of time.

4. Grant of exemptions – International practices¹

Internationally, more transparent, less costly and more effective alternatives to exemptions are often made available to trade and industry. The most effective and transparent means adopted by several developed countries is that the government identifies the specific activities / goods that they deem worthy of support and provide direct subsidies. It is generally felt that the most effective method can be determined only after a careful examination on a case to case basis.

Some countries have created a special tariff or rate scheme for specified products and services. In rationalizing the exemptions regime, it is necessary to agree on some basic principles. Most countries feel that it is important to establish administrative procedures which ensure proper monitoring and control of the exemption process, without unnecessarily interfering with the facilitation of trade.

Principles for Granting Exemptions

- A. The best international practices seen are in respect of imports that are exempt from the obligation to pay import duties on:
- (i) Raw materials and intermediate products used in the production for exports.
 - (ii) Goods imported under aid-funded projects governed by international treaties and agreements banning the payment of import duties.
 - (iii) Goods imported under diplomatic privileges governed by international agreements.
- B. In addition, many countries exempt imports by:
- (a) Government departments and certain government agencies.
 - (b) Entities granted special import privileges as part of an investment promotion program.
- C. Exemptions are granted on goods and / or services in respect of tax free zones, religious bodies, education, cultural, scientific, tourism and charitable purposes etc. It depends from country to country as to the purpose for which such exemptions are granted.
- D. International experience on tax incentives reflect that :
- (i) Tax incentives / exemptions rank very low in the priorities of investors as compared to stability and certainty in the tax regime.
 - (ii) Businesses which would have invested even in the absence of the incentives / exemptions.
 - (iii) Tax incentives / exemptions are usually biased in favour of large well-established entities for whom the incentives are unnecessary when compared to smaller businesses for whom some assistance may be warranted.
 - (iv) It is understood that, WTO rules restrict the ability of governments to utilize tax incentives / exemptions in the way in which they were employed in the past.

Overall, the feeling is that grant of exemptions in the absence of clear underlying principles is to invite rent-seeking, revenue loss and distortion of economic incentives, making sustainable development a more difficult accomplishment.

5. Impact on pricing of outward supplies exempt from tax

Positive Impacts

- No GST is levied on output prices and the goods or services become cheaper for the consumer.
- The supplier is freed from the hassle of computing GST on output supplies considering its valuation, place of supply etc.

- No record of taxes is required to be maintained by the suppliers
- No hassle of matching of input tax credit to the consumer

Downside

- ITC on inputs becomes part of cost of supplier thereby becoming an invisible barrier to the seamless credit in the value chain.
- GST on input supplies of the supplier is still to be borne by the consumer and thus, some GST is inherent in the price of the exempt goods or services.

Aspects of Exemption

1. Government's power to exempt specified goods and services

Exemption by Notification

As per section 11(1) of CGST Act and SGST Act, the Central Government and State Governments have the power to grant exemptions provided the following conditions are fulfilled:

- Exemption should be in public interest
- Exemptions are by way of issue of notification and on recommendation of GST Council
- Exemption may be provided for any goods or services or both
- Exemption may be absolute or conditional
- Exemption may be granted for whole or any part of the tax leviable
- Exemption shall come into force on a date as may be specified in the notification

In exercise of powers conferred by section 11(1) of CGST Act and section 6(1) of IGST Act, the Central government has issued the following notifications to exempt supply of goods or services: -

Subject	Notification No. [CGST Act]	Notification No. [IGST Act]
Exemption to supplies of goods	02/ 2017–Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-Jun-2017 as amended from time to time by various notifications	02/ 2017-Integrated Tax (Rate), dated 28-Jun-2017 as amended from time to time by various notifications

Exemption by Special Order

As per section 11(2) of CGST Act and SGST Act, the Central Government and State Governments have power to grant exemptions provided the following conditions are fulfilled:

- Exemption should be in public interest
- Exemptions are by way of special order in each case and on the recommendations of GST council
- Order should mention the circumstances of exceptional nature
- Exemption to any goods or services or both from payment of tax wholly

Retrospective Clarification

As per section 11(3) of CGST Act and SGST Act, the Central Government and State Governments may, with a view, to explain the scope of notification or order :-

- insert an explanation
- for the purpose of clarifying scope or applicability of any notification issued or order issued
- by way of notification
- within 1 year of issue of notification or order
- such Notification shall have retrospective effect

Registered person shall not collect tax in excess of the effective rate

The explanation provided under section 11, provides as follows:

- Grant of absolute exemption from whole or part of tax
- Registered person not to collect tax in excess of the effective rate
- It provides a mandatory requirement to follow absolute exemptions

Effective Date of Exemption

The effective date of the notification would be the date mentioned in the notification as per section 11(1). However, GST law does not have any provision in cases where no date is mentioned in the notification. Section 5A of Central Excise Act, 1944 provides for such a situation which says that unless otherwise provided, the effective date of notification shall be:

- The date of its issue for publication in the official gazette
- The date on which it is made available on the official website of the Government Department.

CGST Act	SGST/ UTGST Act	Yes
SGST/ UTGST Act	CGST Act	No
IGST Act	CGST/ SGST/ UTGST Act	No
SGST/ UTGST Act	IGST Act	No

Comparative provisions under the erstwhile laws

The provisions relating to exemption are broadly similar to the exemption provisions under the erstwhile tax regime. There are no significant differences.

2. Supplies that lack consideration – Whether exempted?

At the very beginning it is stated that the discussions in this Chapter are in respect of those activities which are not listed in Schedule I to the CGST Act, 2017. Before we commence discussion on the various issues it is important to understand the meaning of the term 'consideration'.

Consideration – Service Tax	Consideration – GST
Section 65B (44) of the Finance Act, 1994 (hereinafter referred to as 'The Act') defines 'service' as "an activity carried out for another for consideration.", but what constitutes "consideration" has not been elaborately defined in the Act. The meaning of the term 'consideration' was provided in Explanation (a) to Section 67 of the Act which stated that: 'Consideration includes any amount that is payable for the services provided or to be provided'.	As per Section 2(31) of the CGST Act the term consideration has been defined thus: "Consideration in relation to the supply of goods and/or services includes: any payment made or to be made, whether in money or otherwise, in respect of, in response to, or for the inducement of, the supply of goods or services or both, whether by the recipient or by any other person but shall not include any subsidy given by the Central Government or a State Government. the monetary value of any act or forbearance, whether or not voluntary, in respect of, in response to, or for the inducement of, the supply of goods or services or both, whether by the person or by any other person but shall not include any subsidy given by the Central Government or a State Government: Provided that a deposit given in respect of the supply of goods or services or both shall not be considered as payment made for such supply unless the Supplier applies such deposit as consideration for the said supply;
Any sum paid or payable for supply of goods and / or services may form part of the consideration. The second part of the definition of 'consideration' may include monetary value of any forbearance, which is brought under the purview of the definition of the word 'consideration'. This provision is in line with the provisions of Section 66E of the Finance Act 1994 i.e. declared services, for example, an amount paid as contractual penalty for non-supply of goods could still be treated as "monetary value of forbearance" and therefore could be considered as consideration.

Supply without consideration

It was well understood that while a service provided without any consideration was excluded from the levy of service tax; similarly, sale made without a consideration was outside the purview for the purpose of levy under the Value-Added Tax Laws. Although the concept of supply without consideration existed under the indirect tax framework for e.g. under Central Excise, there existed a valuation mechanism for goods cleared as free samples. While several business situations can be thought of, we will proceed to discuss the following two critical issues.

(i) Supply without consideration such as Free Samples and Free Goods / Promotional items, Samples of Medicines etc.

GST Input Tax Credit shall not be allowed for goods lost, stolen, destroyed, written off or disposed of by way of gift or free samples. Accordingly, input tax credit is required to be reversed in respect of goods which have been disposed of by way of free samples. If free promotional items are provided with the taxable product, then the consideration for the same will be the value charged from the consumer.

(ii) Supply of free materials by Contractee

- This was one of the most vexed issues under the erstwhile laws and it is going to be one under the GST laws as well. The Tax Department contended that the materials are supplied by the contractee as part of the impugned contract and therefore the value was, to be included in the gross amount charged for the levy of Service Tax treating the same as “Non-monetary consideration” and hence, includible in the value under Section 67(ii) of Chapter V the Finance Act, 1994. There were several judgements in this regard.
- It is a settled position under the Sales Tax / VAT Laws that free supply would be construed as sale liable to Sales Tax / VAT when the value of the contractee supplied goods was deducted from the contract price payable which was inclusive of the value of the material.
- The Customs Law vide Rule 10(1) of Customs Valuation (Determination of Value of Imported Goods) Rules, 2007 specifically provides that-

The value, apportioned as appropriate, of the following goods and services where supplied directly or indirectly by the buyer free of charge or at reduced cost for use in connection with the production and sale for export of imported goods, to the extent that such value has not been included in the price actually paid or payable, namely-

- (a) Materials, components, parts and similar items incorporated in the imported goods;
 - (b) Tools, dies, moulds and similar items used in the production of the Imported goods;
 - (c) Materials consumed in the production of the imported goods;
- shall be includible in the assessable value.

- Similarly, under the Central excise law based on Section 4, Rule 6 [similar to Rule 10(1) above] and interpretations, an argument may be put forth that the value of free supplies made by the buyer shall be includable in the Assessable Value.

- GST law on free supplies

Section 15(2) of the CGST Act reads “the value of supply shall include any amount that the Supplier is liable to pay in relation to such supply but which has been incurred by the recipient of supply and not included in the price actually paid or payable for the goods or services or both”.

This is the provision which the tax authorities could invoke on the following basis:

- (a) Contract value included the value of goods that are being issued free of cost;
- (b) Such goods are now being supplied by the contractee (recipient) whereas it ought to be supplied by the contractor (supplier);
- (c) Such value is not included in the supply price of the supplier; and
- (d) Therefore, it ought to be subjected to taxes under the GST laws.

In order to overcome this situation, and considering the fact that Input Tax Credit (ITC) may be available in respect of the tax paid by the contractor, the whole exercise may end up becoming revenue neutral to both parties, the takeaway being procedural compliance relating to raising invoice by the contractor / contractee on such free supplies and the contractor also including the same for valuation of his outward supply.

Valuation of such free supplies, whether the same value is to be adopted by both parties or whether valuation is to be done independently, is another vexed issue that may arise.

- Conclusion : Free Supplies GST

Considering the several implications the trade and industry believes that it would be advisable for the Government to have a re-look at these provisions to avoid unnecessary litigation in the future. Registered persons should sensitise their vendors, customers and stake holders in general so that they are made aware of the above implications well in advance, and be prepared to take necessary corrective actions if required.

3. Supply of exempted goods and services

Supply of exempted goods and services is simple to understand. For eg., sale of fruits by a fruit seller shall require no further examination. However, when such exempt supply is a part of other supplies which might be taxable, one has to be cautious as to the determination of the classification. If such exempt supply is an integral part of two or more supplies of goods or services or both, or any combination thereof, which are naturally bundled and supplied in conjunction with each other in the ordinary course of business, one of which is a principal supply, then such package shall be classified as a composite supply. The principal supply shall decide the nature of the entire package and if such supply is taxable, the entire package shall be taxed at such rate but if the principal supply is exempt, then, the entire supply shall be exempted. For eg., a shop owner sells one box of glass bangles to a customer for Rs 10,000 and charges Rs. 150 as packing charges. Individually, packing services are taxable @18%, but, since they are incidental to a principal supply of goods, they (being part of composite supply) shall also be exempt from GST. However, in case an exempt supply is part of a customised package which is not a composite supply and consists of two or more individual supplies of goods or services, or any combination thereof, when made in conjunction with each other for a single price shall form part of a mixed supply. In case of a mixed supply, the highest rate supply determines the rate for the entire package. For eg., if a person sells a combo of fruits and chocolates for Rs 1000, then the entire package shall be taxed at the rate applicable for chocolates and value of fruits cannot be exempted in any manner.

4. Zero-rated supplies and exemptions

A person making exempt supplies is not supposed to pay tax on the value of his output. He is also not eligible to claim input tax credit on his inward supply of goods and services used in providing such output exempt supplies. However, an exception has been carved out by law in case of zero rated supplies. The provisions as contained under section 16 of the Integrated Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 ("IGST Act") provide that while no tax shall be levied on certain categories of supplies termed as 'zero rated supplies', refund of input taxes, shall be allowed in such cases. Thus, while the output of such supplies remains exempt from payment of tax, such supplies can be distinguished from exempt supplies as input tax on goods and services used in providing such services has been allowed to the supplier. Following supplies shall be treated as zero rated supplies-

- (a) Export of goods or services or both;
- (b) Supply of goods or services or both to a SEZ developer or SEZ unit.

Can I claim refund of input tax if I export exempted goods?

Any zero-rated supply is eligible for refund of input tax paid by such supplier. Even if the output is exempt, the law allows the benefit of refund of input taxes to such supplier also. For eg. Chanchan (P) Ltd. is exporting plastic bangles to Canada which is exempt under GST vide Notification No. 1/ 2017-Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-Jun-2017. For manufacturing plastic bangles, it bought plastic as raw material and other decorative items and paid tax amounting to Rs. 1,50,000/- on it. Since it is exporting an exempt item, Chanchan (P) Ltd. can claim refund of unutilized input tax credit paid on such inward supplies. Thereby, export of exempted goods or services will also be treated as zero rated supplies.

5. Exempt supplies and availability of input tax credit

If a person is supplying exempt goods / services, he cannot avail Input Tax Credit as available on his purchase of goods and services used for supply of such exempt output. For eg., a person who is selling banana and uses a warehouse for which rent is paid on which GST is levied. Since supply of banana is exempt, such person would not get Input tax credit of the GST paid on warehouse.

If my supply is exempt, can I get refund of my Input tax credit?

If a person is supplying 'nil' rated or fully exempted goods / services, he cannot avail refund of the credit accumulated on account of rate of tax on inputs being higher than the rate of tax on output supplies. The position has been clarified in Section 54(3) of the CGST Act.

If a supply of service is exempt, will the recipient who is required to pay GST under reverse charge, be also exempted?

If a supply is 'nil' rated or fully exempt, even the recipient is not required to pay the tax under reverse charge. For eg., when service of transportation of rice is exempt, even the person responsible for payment of tax under reverse charge is not required to pay tax under reverse charge.

If a supplier supplies both taxable as well as exempted supplies, can he avail his entire input tax credit?

If a supplier is supplying both taxable (including zero rated) as well as exempted goods then, the amount of credit shall be restricted to so much of the input tax as is attributable to the said taxable supplies including zero-rated supplies. Input tax credit is available on inputs, input services and capital goods procured by the supplier for supplying taxable supplies. One may refer to the formula for reversal of input tax credit as per Rules 42 and 43 of the CGST Rules 2017 which have been reproduced below :

Determination of Input Tax Credit on Inputs and Input services as per Rule 42

For determining such amount, the law has provided the following procedure in respect of inputs and input services:

- Such person shall avail entire input tax credit on inputs and input services used for provision of exclusively taxable supplies.
- Such person shall not avail entire input tax credit on inputs and input services used for provision of exclusively exempt supplies or for making supplies for the purposes other than business.
- Such persons shall avail proportionate Input tax credit in relation to inputs and input services which are used for provision of both taxable as well exempt supplies. The proportion of Input tax credit attributable towards exempt supplies, be denoted as 'D1' and calculated as - where,

$$D1 = (E \div F) \times C2$$

'E' is the aggregate value of exempt supplies during the tax period, and

'F' is the total turnover in the State of the registered person during the tax period:

Further, the amount of credit attributable to non-business purposes if common inputs and input services are used partly for business and partly for non-business purposes, be denoted as 'D2', and shall be equal to five percent of C2.

Thus, the available common credit shall be as under:

ITC on inputs and input services used exclusively for provision of taxable services + Common ITC minus D1 minus D2

The above formulae need to be applied for the entire year considering the total exempted and taxable supplies for the year for all tax periods before the due date for furnishing of the return for the month of September following the end of the financial year to which such credit relates.

Determination of Input Tax Credit on Capital Goods under Rule 43

'Capital goods' is defined in section 2(19) of CGST Act to mean goods which have been capitalised in the books of accounts. In respect of capital goods, the entire ITC is available at the time of purchase of such Capital Goods. It is important to mention that no ITC is available to the extent of depreciation under Income Tax Act, 1961 has been claimed on such value. Further, Rule 43 provides that when such Capital Goods are partly used for the supply of exempted goods or exempted services, the ITC availed thereon has to be reversed every month on the amount of credit calculated by reducing the input tax @ 5% for every quarter or part thereof till 60 months from its date of purchase computed in the following manner:

ITC availed on the Capital Goods x 5% for every quarter or part thereof x E/F

Where, 'E' is the aggregate value of exempt supplies, made, during the tax period, and 'F' is the total turnover of the registered person during the tax period.

Further, interest is to be paid on such value of ITC as attributable towards exempt supplies.

Classification

1. Classification and levy of GST on supply of goods and services

Need for Classification

Classification plays an important role in determining whether a supply is a supply of goods or services, whether it is a composite supply or mixed supply, what is the principal supply in case of composite supply, whether a supply is taxable supply or exempt supply and the like. In order to arrive at the applicable rate of tax, it is important to classify the goods or services correctly. Let's have a look at some examples which explain why classification is necessary:

- 'Dabur Lal Dant Manjan' is to be considered as ayurvedic medicament or toilet preparation.
- Apple drink 'Appy fizz' is to be considered as Fruit Beverage or Cold Drink with aerated water
- A candle stand is to be considered as metal product or home décor
- A soap made of natural herbs for curing skin infections is to be considered as ayurvedic medicament or beauty/ personal care product or toilet preparation.

It is clear from the above examples that classification is not free from doubts and may become an area of litigation. Classification should not be based on the decision of a particular person or on common parlance but one should take the guidance from law itself.

Classification under GST

Under GST, the Government has issued various notifications specifying the rate of tax using HSN based classification adopted from Customs Tariff Act, 1975. Notification No. 01/ 2017– Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-Jun-2017 prescribes the rate of tax on goods and Notification No. 11/ 2017-Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-Jun-2017 prescribes the rate of tax on services; Notification No. 2/ 2017-Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-Jun-2017 prescribes goods or class of goods which are exempt from tax and Notification No. 12/ 2017-Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-Jun-2017 prescribes the services or class of services which are exempt from tax in terms of section 11(1) of CGST Act. These notifications contain explanations as to how the classification must be done.

Rate Notifications have specified the approach which is to be followed for the purpose of classification. The same is summarized hereunder-

- For classification of goods the notification requires reference to be made to the First Schedule to the Customs Tariff Act, 1975.
- For classification of services the notification requires reference to be made to the Annexure which contains the scheme of classification.
- Rules of interpretation mentioned in the First Schedule to the Customs Tariff Act 1975 may apply to both interpretation of notification relating to goods and to the interpretation of Heading 9988 for services which includes manufacturing services on physical inputs (goods) owned by others.

Understanding Harmonized System of Nomenclature (HSN)

HSN is a multipurpose international product nomenclature developed by the World Customs Organization (WCO). The main purpose of HSN is to classify goods from all over the world in a systematic and logical manner. This brings uniformity in classification of goods and facilitates international trade. HSN standardizes the classification of goods under sections, chapters, headings, and sub-headings.

HSN Code was initially adopted for Customs purposes in India in 1975 and readapted (with some changes) for Central Excise in 1985 and now in 2017 for the purpose of GST. In India, an eight digit HSN is assigned to goods by organizing them in a hierarchical manner. However, goods can be identified broadly by using not less than 2 digits, and very specifically by using all the 8 digits.

The First Schedule to the Customs Tariff Act comprises of 21 sections which are further divided into 98 Chapters.

- (i) Sections: A group of Chapters representing a particular class of goods
- (ii) Chapter: Each section is divided into various Chapters and sub-Chapters. Each Chapter contains goods of one class.
- (iii) Chapter Notes: They are mentioned at the beginning of each Chapter. These notes are part of the statute and hence have the legal authority in determining the classification of goods.
- (iv) Heading: Each Chapter and sub-Chapter is further divided into various headings.
- (v) Sub-Heading: Each heading is further divided into various sub-headings.

HSN Code under GST will remove the need to upload the detailed description of goods while filing returns under GST. The Government, vide Notification No. 12/ 2017-Central Tax, dated 28-Jun-2017 had notified the class of registered persons who shall mention HSN w.e.f 1st July 2017 till 31st March 2020 on tax invoices issued by them as under –

Annual Turnover in the preceding Financial Year	Number of Digits of HSN Code
Upto Rs.1.5 crore	NIL
More than Rs. 1.5 crore and upto Rs. 5 crores	2
More than Rs. 5 crores	4

Handbook on Exempted Supplies under GST

However as per Central Tax Notification No. 78/2020 dated 15th October 2020, number of digits of HSN to be mentioned depending on the Aggregate Turnover during the preceding Financial Year has been notified. It is applicable w.e.f 1st April 2021.

S.No.	Annual Turnover in the preceding Financial Year	Number of Digits of HSN Code
1	Upto Rs 5 Crores	4 (optional for B2C supply)
2	More than Rs 5 Crores	6

If the aggregate turnover during the preceding financial year is up to Rs 5 Crores, there is no requirement of mentioning HSN in respect of supplies made to unregistered persons.

Along the lines of HSN, the customs tariff has a set of six Rules of Interpretation and three General Explanatory Notes.

Example -Hierarchical structure of HSN

Section	II	Vegetable Products
Chapter	8	Edible fruits and nuts; peel of citrus fruit or melons
Heading	0805	Citrus Fruit, fresh or dried
Sub-heading	0805 10	Oranges

In respect of services, an Annexure is appended to Notification No. 11/ 2017-Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-Jun-2017 which provides for the Scheme of Classification of services. CBIC has recently issued explanatory notes to the Scheme of Classification of Services which is based on explanatory notes to the United Nations Central Product Classification (UNCPC). The explanatory notes indicate the scope and coverage of the heading, groups and service codes of the Scheme of Classification of Services. These may be used by the assessee and the tax administration as a guiding tool for classification of services. It may be noted that where a service is capable of differential treatment for any purpose based on its description, the most specific description shall be preferred over a more general description.

Rules of Interpretation: Customs Tariff Act, 1975

The rules of interpretation provided in the Customs Tariff Act, 1975 gives guidance regarding the approach to be followed for reading and interpreting the tariff items. Legal provisions of rules read as under: -

Summary of Rules explaining classification under Customs Tariff Act.

Rule 1:

- Sections, Chapters and sub-Chapters are for ease of reference only.
- For legal purpose, refer to headings and sub-headings for classification.

Rule 2(a):

- If the goods are incomplete/ unfinished but still have the essential character of the finished product, then it is to be classified as finished product by referring to the heading.
- It also includes the goods that are in unassembled/ disassembled form.

Rule 2(b):

- Any reference to a material or substance includes mixture or combination of that material or substance with other material or substances.
- Classification of goods containing more than one material or substance shall be as per rule 3.

Rule 3:

When by applying rule 2(b), goods are classifiable under two or more headings then classification shall be done as follows:

- Most specific description shall be preferred over more general description. [Rule 3(a)]
- Mixtures/ composite goods should be classified as per the material or substance that gives them their essential character. [Rule 3(b)]
- When unable to classify by applying rules 3(a) & 3(b) then classify under the heading that occurs last in numerical order. [Rule 3(c)]

Rule 4:

- If goods cannot be classified as per the above rules, they are to be classified according to the goods to which they are most akin.

Rule 5(a):

- Containers specifically designed for the article and suitable for long-term use will be classified along with that article. This rule does not apply if the container gives the whole of its essential character.

Rule 5(b):

- Packing materials and containers are also to be classified with the related goods except when the packing is for repetitive use.

Rule 6:

- For legal purposes, the classification of goods in the sub-headings of a heading shall be determined according to the terms of those sub-headings related to it.
- Compare the sub-headings only if they are at same level.

Hence, by applying the above rules a taxable person would be able to identify the right HSN code of its tariff item.

Classification of Exemption

Exemptions granted as per section 11 of CGST Act, 2017 are absolute or conditional from whole of tax or part of tax. These exemptions are capable of carving out a portion from an entry so as to differentially alter the rate of tax applicable to goods or services in that entry. Further, we can classify the exemptions under three parts:

- Qua-supplier: This type of exemption is provided only to a particular supplier like exemption to the services provided by a charitable trust registered under section 12AA or 12AB of Income-Tax Act, 1961.
- Qua-Recipient: This type of exemption is provided to recipients like supplies made to exporter are taxable @ 0.05%-CGST and 0.05% SGST as per Notification No. 40/2017-Central Tax (Rate), dated 23-Oct-2017.
- Qua-Supplies: This type of exemption is provided to a particular supply like exemption to the supply of fresh fruits, vegetables and milk.

Burden to prove availability of Exemption is on the supplier

Every supplier claiming his goods or services as exempt needs to establish the same to the revenue authorities. In its judgment in the case of CC(Import), Mumbai v. Dilip Kumar and Company & Ors (Civil Appeal No. 3327 of 2007), the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court held that an exemption notification should be interpreted strictly and the burden of proving applicability would be on the assessee to show that his case comes within the parameters of the exemption clause or exemption notification.

It was further held that when there is ambiguity in the exemption notification which is subject to strict interpretation, the benefit of such ambiguity cannot be claimed by the subject / assessee and it must be interpreted in favour of the Revenue.

2. Procedure to avail exemptions

There is no specified procedure to avail an exemption. Any person supplying exempted goods or services can avail exemption subject to the precautions in terms of determining his classification of such exempted goods or services. Certain items require clarity while availing an exemption and can be material in determining an exemption, some of which are as follows:

Notification

One should check whether the exemption intended to be availed falls under any of the notifications issued by Government in terms of section 11(1) of CGST Act. Whether goods or services fall under Notification No. 02/2017-Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-June-2018 or Notification No. 12/2017-Central Tax (Rate), dated 28-June-2017 or any other notification.

Definitions given in Notifications

One should carefully analyze the definitions provided in the exemption notification before claiming exemption. Understanding the exemption without considering the definitions given in the notifications is incomplete.

Principles of interpretation

Understanding of rules of interpretation and general explanatory notes provided in the First Schedule to the Customs Tariff Act, 1975 will help in identifying more accurate heading of the supply and thereby, arriving at the conclusion as to whether or not the supply is an exempt supply.

Advance rulings on the subject

One should check whether there is any advance ruling related to the exemption intended to be availed which can assist in better decision making.

Court rulings etc. may be taken care of Any other judicial pronouncement related to the exemption must be considered before availing of any exemption.

Issue related to principal contractor and sub-contractor service

Under GST, the services provided by way of pure labour contracts of construction, erection, commissioning, installation, completion, fitting out, repair, maintenance, renovation, or alteration of a civil structure or any other original works pertaining to the beneficiary-led individual house construction or enhancement under the Housing for All (Urban) Mission or Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana and services by way of pure labour contracts of construction, erection, commissioning, or installation of original works pertaining to a single residential unit otherwise than as a part of a residential complex are exempt.

Any reference to a supply shall not mean a reference to its subsidiary supplies i.e. supply taken to provide such supply. Such input supply shall be considered in its individual capacity and any rate or exemption as applicable to the main supply does not automatically apply to sub supplies. For eg., if any supply is provided to the government by a contractor (Mr X) and such supply is exempt, then the supply of sub-contractor (Mr Y) to the main contractor shall not be exempt and it needs to be examined as to whether any exemption is available to such supply as well. Mr Y cannot be said to have provided supply to government.

Principles of Exemption

1. Basic principles of construction of exemption provisions

It is expected that Laws are drafted by experts in the chosen fields and the language employed would therefore, leave little room for difficulties in construction / interpretation. But experience in reality is often different. When a draftsman translates his intent into law, while keeping in mind the objects and reasons for the relevant statute, there could always be a flaw. Therefore, ambiguous words, expressions, inconsistencies do creep in. Interpretation can be understood as follows:

- Interpretation is independent of facts;
- The application of a provision would most certainly depend on facts of a given case and its surrounding circumstances.

In essence, interpretation means understanding the true sense of the provision which the legislature intends to convey ensuring that the reader understands it the same way; The word construction is nothing but drawing conclusions that the provisions of law desire to convey. To that extent interpretation and construction are not synonymous. However, these words are being used interchangeably. The basic principles of construction of any provision, be it taxability or exemption are largely the same.

Some of these principles are the following:

- (a) A construction of a statute must at the threshold be never open to judicial interpretation. For example, no law can be enacted unless the Constitution empowers the legislature to do so.
- (b) A statute must be construed based on the intent of the person who wants to legislate. It must convey the “true and legal” meaning as the legislature intended; it must be exhaustive; it must cover all possible intended situations; the language employed must be simple, cogent and easy to understand while the words used must convey plainly the intent and object of the legislature; importantly the spirit of the legislature must be conveyed through the construction of a statute.
- (c) It must be so drafted or construed that it must be read as a whole and in its context; there must be no mischief; there must be no scope of vivisectioning the construction; the purpose of the construction is to reach the intended recipient.
- (d) Each word, phrase, expression or sentence must be so construed that the general purpose of the Act is met.

- (e) Equal attention must be paid in construction of a statute that it serves the dominant and ancillary purposes with equal force.
- (f) A beneficial interpretation of a statute must not result into an exercise in futility.
- (g) A plain or literal reading of a statute must ensure equity without ambiguity;
- (h) The language employed must ensure grammatical accuracy; must not permit addition, rejection or substitution of words; avoid technical words, words used by business etc., to have the desired effect of a construction.
- (i) The construction of a statute must ensure that there is no injustice, hardship or inconvenience caused to a person who is not the intended recipient.
- (j) Headings, punctuations must be taken care of. These often cause ambiguity and lack of clarity to a reader.
- (k) Illustrations can be provided to supply clarity;
- (l) Wherever definitions are required they must be supplied by the statute. To the extent possible referential legislation must be avoided since different statutes may have different objects.
- (m) Any construction involving a Proviso must be clear – either to “except” or “include” or “qualify” and nothing more. Generally, a Proviso must not lead to a different construction.
- (n) The provision so enacted must lay emphasis on “substance” rather than on “form”.
- (o) Many times, a provision contains an explanation. The job of an explanation is to explain the “words” contained in the provision. It is definitely a part and parcel of the provision. An explanation when inserted is generally understood to go back to the date on which the provision is deemed to be operational. When an explanation is appended to a clause in a Section then the explanation is deemed to apply only to that clause. However, when an explanation is added at the end of a section having several sub-sections / clauses then it is deemed to apply to all sub-sections and clauses unless the explanation qualifies with words such as “for the purposes of clause (a) of sub-section (3) of section 12” etc. An explanation generally supports the main object of the enactment itself.
- (p) Sometimes a provision contains or refers to a Schedule. A Schedule attached or appended to an Act forms part of the enactment. A schedule generally carries details and it avoids a section being overburdened with such details. Generally, a Schedule is a matter of convenience.
- (q) Several provisions commence with the expressions “notwithstanding anything contained”. It is generally known as a non-obstante clause. It means the relevant provision has an over-riding effect over a particular section or circumstance or any other enactment itself.

- (r) Apart from all these a provision sometimes uses the words “deem, deemed or deeming etc.”. Usage of such words implies that the provision creates a legal fiction. Normally, the fiction created is for the purpose of that provision alone and it cannot be extended to any other provision of the enactment.

These are some of the basic principles of construction of a provision. If a draftsman has to bear all these principles in mind and go ahead with construing an exemption provision he will be overburdened. It is for these reasons that a draftsman generally construes the provision first and then applies these legal principles to ensure that even in case of a judicial review or challenge the provision stands the test of law. It is certainly a huge responsibility on the part of a draftsman to keep these guiding principles in mind while drafting an exemption provision which backs the legislative intent.

2. Whether an exemption is mandatory or optional

One of the most burning issues that bothers the tax fraternity as well as trade and industry is whether to avail an exemption or not ?. More importantly, whether availing an exemption can be optional or would it be mandatory. In order to answer this vexed issue, we need to understand some basics of availment / non-availment of exemptions:

- (a) If the output stands exempted, it necessarily envisages that input tax credit shall accordingly stand restricted.
- (b) Once the output is exempt, there can be no tacit collection of taxes meaning the incidence of taxes (even at the general rate) cannot be passed on to the customer through a pricing mechanism.
- (c) If the exemption is product / service specific, entity specific, period or area specific, cap on value etc., it appears that availment of such exemption is mandatory. It may not be possible to pay output tax, say at a general rate and continue to avail input tax credits.
- (d) Merely because a customer may be willing to pay taxes on exempted goods or services, it does not mean that the supplier can collect taxes; in fact, in such cases it will amount to excess / unauthorised collection of taxes resulting in forfeiture of taxes whereas input tax credits will continue to stand restricted. Thus, it can amount to a double whammy.
- (e) Some tax experts believe that once the tax stands collected on the output, availability of input tax credit would be automatic; This is an issue which has been subject to judicial review on several occasions and on most occasions it has been held in favour of Revenue;
- (f) The principles underlying the grant of an exemption would generally be to alleviate the difficulties faced by a particular sector of business and to make them more competitive or to boost or encourage the economy of a particular area in a State or country (and to make them competitive); or to encourage small and medium size trade and industry to invest the profits arising out of price advantage back into business resulting in higher economic activity etc. If these are broadly the underlying principles then availment of exemptions on an optional basis would defeat the very purpose of grant of exemption and thus, it appears that such a scheme would not be possible;

- (g) Difficulty often arises when the trade and industry is not very certain as to whether a particular product / service stands exempted since there may be a classification issues. In such over-riding circumstances, it is always better to seek an advance ruling to avoid possible forfeiture of taxes and thereafter, avail the input tax as a dis-allowance. Even in this situation it is advisable not to collect taxes, since taxes collected are to be remitted to the exchequer. In such a situation, if later it turns out that the goods / service is really exempt from payment of taxes then the question of restriction of input tax credits will most certainly arise.
- (h) In any of these situations it would be important to understand the effect of taxation in the following situations :

What if taxes are not collected by a Supplier considering the fact that goods / services stand exempt but it later turns out to be a taxable transaction :- This is a situation faced quite often by the trade and industry. Assuming that factually it is a legal issue and the supplier has not collected taxes, Courts have often come to the rescue of the supplier by stating that if output taxes are payable, then the corresponding input taxes would stand allowed even if it is not availed (or restricted) in the original returns; however, once output tax becomes payable and the taxes are collected by the tax office in terms of section 74 then the recipient cannot avail any input tax credits under the provisions of the GST laws; this situation is quite scary and therefore the law to this extent needs a re-look.

Can the Supplier in the above situation pass on the output tax paid by him through a debit note or supplementary invoice :- In the normal course, if before the tax office raises the issue and collects the taxes ,the supplier or recipient becomes aware that the transaction claimed as exempt is actually taxable, then a debit note could be raised. In this situation, it will turn out to be tax neutral so far as the supplier and the recipient are concerned. The challenge of availing input tax credits at a later date (assuming it is not claimed / availed within the prescribed period) would continue to haunt the supplier. This situation also needs to be looked into by the law makers.

Considering, each of the situations cited supra, the supplier has to be very careful. In case of a doubt, the best way would be to seek an advance ruling to settle the issue.

3. Retrospective application of an exemption

It is a settled position that the Union and the States are competent to legislate any law retrospectively within the Constitutional framework. This power is generally used for curing defects in law or to nullify the impact of Court judgements. It is also a settled position of law that there can be retroactive amendments imposing an additional liability. However, machinery and procedural provisions can be subject to retrospective amendment. A retrospective operation of law which is oppressive and appears to take away a benefit already bestowed can be held to be confiscatory in nature and it can therefore be said to be violative of Articles 14 and 19 of the Constitution.

A retrospective amendment cannot affect an existing right and create a new obligation. For instance, if exemption is provided to say, sale of footwear costing less than Rs.500/- then a retrospective amendment cannot be made to provide that it applies only to plastic footwear.

A taxing statute cannot be termed to be retrospective, if it taxes an event that is continuing when the amendment or Act came into force. For instance, in respect of agreements entered into under the erstwhile laws between a developer and a customer, taxes can be levied under the GST laws to the extent the contract is continuing.

It is a settled position of law that any retrospective amendment, if beneficial, is deemed to be good law. In one of the States' tax exemptions were granted to manufacturing industries located in a particular backward area. It so happened, that a few Granite Industries engaged purely in cutting and polishing of granites came up in that area and availed tax exemptions. The Department later took up a position that "cutting and polishing of granites" does not result in manufacture. All the granite industries in that area went up in arms – and the Government later relented and granted exemption retrospectively. Having understood this case history, let us now look at the issues that arise when the Government grants an exemption retrospectively:

- (a) A registered person may have already collected taxes from his customers for the past tax periods and may not have paid to the Government, in which case, such a retrospective amendment would have the effect of an unjust enrichment in his hands (if taxes so collected have not been made over to the Government). It is possible that he may have availed input tax credits, in which case, such input tax credits already availed would need to be reversed resulting in payment of taxes along with interest and penalties. The taxes so collected from his customers also need to be paid to the Government. In this scenario the following consequences arise :
- The customers from whom taxes have been collected and paid to the Government stand to get refunds.
 - Alternatively, the taxes so collected from customers and paid to the credit of the Government can stand forfeited, if such customers, do not come forward to make such refund claims. In this scenario, can the Government be said to be unjustly enriched.
 - Tax, interest and penalties levied on the registered person on account of input tax reversals would have to be borne by the supplier as costs.
 - If taxes have been collected by the registered person from his customers and not paid to the Government, then it could lead to initiation of prosecution proceedings depending on the quantum of taxes and nature of the offence.

- (b) If the registered person has not collected taxes but has remitted taxes from his own pocket then:
- it will result in a refund situation provided the Supplier has not availed any input tax set off;
 - if he has availed input tax setoff, then the resultant effect could be a smaller or lower amount of refund.
- (c) Assume a situation where the Government denies exemption and thereafter, on litigation the Courts restore the exemption. It is a very painful exercise of litigation for the supplier and he has to go through the process cited in (a) and (b) above to prove the bona fides of his case.
- (d) What would be the position of a registered person having multiple branches in different States and when one State grants or allows exemption while another does not. The only option open to the supplier in this scenario, is to litigate in the State where exemption has been denied. However, on facts, if Courts or Appellate Authorities rule in favour of the supplier granting exemption, then there could be no further arguments, whereas if the Courts confirm the levy, then the State which has granted exemption would stand to re-open such assessments and initiate proceedings which is far more painful exercise.
- (e) It must be noted that in each of the cases, the law pre-supposes that taxes are deemed to have been collected by the supplier unless the supplier proves otherwise. The net impact of a retrospective exemption could be rather cumbersome for the supplier.
- (f) Let us now turn our attention to the recipient of such supply and analyse the situation.
- In cases, where taxes are charged by the supplier and input tax credits have been availed by the recipient, the presumption is that the supplier would have remitted such taxes to the Government. In such a situation, the availment of input tax credits by the recipient would stay unhindered; however, if the supplier has not remitted the taxes, then the question arises as to whether availment of such input tax credits in the hands of the recipient could be denied?
 - In cases, where no taxes are charged whereas the supply is held to be a taxable supply in the hands of the supplier then the only question is can the supplier issue a debit note to the recipient. This is a contract between the supplier and the recipient and Government would have no role to play. However, the question is whether the recipient can avail input tax credits on the strength of debit note if within the prescribed time lines then the answer would be 'yes' – otherwise 'no'. This view is however, subject to the provisions of section 74 of the CGST Act, 2017.
- (g) Some of the situations when retrospective exemptions are granted by the Government could be:
- (i) To alleviate the difficulties caused by ambiguous words / text etc., used in notifications / circulars / legislative provisions etc.

- (ii) To give effect to the intent of Legislature which did not have the desired effect.
- (iii) To give effect to orders of judiciary;

To conclude, one will have to exercise caution and care while interpreting the exemption provisions. While this publication would provide an insight, the facts and surrounding circumstances have to be considered while understanding a retrospective amendment to the exemption provisions.

Procedural Aspects

1. Registration in cases of supply of exempt goods and/or services

Section 9 provides that a taxable person is liable to pay tax under the GST laws. Taxable person has been defined as a person who is registered or liable to be registered. Section 22 and Section 24 of the CGST Act provide the criteria which when fulfilled require a person to take registration. Section 22 provides for registration of every supplier effecting the taxable supplies if his turnover exceeds the threshold limit of Rs.20 lakhs and Rs.10 lakhs in special category States. Every supplier shall be liable to be registered under the Act in the State from which he makes a taxable supply of Goods or Services or both. It is important to note that registration is required 'in' the State 'from where' taxable supplies are made. Section 24 lays down a list of persons who are required to obtain registration without any monetary limit i.e. even if they do not have supplies of Rs 20 Lakhs. Such person includes electronic commerce operators, input service distributors, non-resident taxable persons etc.

Further, Section 23 of the CGST Act provides that the following persons shall not be liable to take registration:

- any person engaged exclusively in the business of supplying goods or services or both that are not liable to tax or wholly exempt from tax under this Act or under the Integrated Goods and Services Tax Act;
- an agriculturist, to the extent of supply of produce out of cultivation of land.
- The Government may, on the recommendations of the Council, by notification, specify the category of persons who may be exempted from obtaining registration under this Act. Accordingly, the Central Government vide Notification No. 05/2017-Central Tax, dt. 19-06-2017 has, w.e.f 22nd June 2017 amended section 23 of CGST Act, 2017 to include the persons who are only engaged in making supplies of taxable goods or services or both, the total tax on which is liable to be paid on reverse charge basis by the recipient of such goods or services or both under section 9(3) of the CGST Act, 2017 in the category of persons exempt from obtaining registration under the aforesaid Act.

Thus, a person who is making exclusive supply of exempt goods or services or both is not required to obtain registration; however, if he is engaged in the supply of any taxable goods or services, he shall be required to take registration. It is worth noting that the above Rs 20 Lakhs limit as specified in Section 22 shall be arrived at after adding both taxable as well as exempt supplies. Thus, even if a person has Rs 19.5 lakhs of exempt supplies but Rs. 1 lakh of taxable supplies, he is required to take registration.

2. Documents, e-way bills and records required in case of exempt supplies and consequences on non-compliance

Documents required to be issued in case of Exempt Supply:

Section 31(3)(c) of the CGST Act provides that a registered person supplying exempt goods or services or both or paying tax under the provisions of section 10 shall issue, instead of a tax invoice, a bill of supply containing such particulars and in such manner as may be prescribed. It is further provided that a registered person has an option not to issue bill of supply if the value of the goods or services or both supplied (per invoice) is less than Rs. 200/-, subject to the following conditions-

- (i) the recipient is not a registered person; and
- (ii) the recipient does not require such invoice.

In such a situation, the registered person shall issue a consolidated bill of supply for such supplies at the close of each day in respect of all such supplies.

Contents of Bill of Supply

A bill of supply shall contain the following particulars-

- (a) name, address and GSTIN of the supplier;
- (b) a consecutive serial number not exceeding 16 characters;
- (c) date of issue;
- (d) name, address and GSTIN of registered recipient;
- (e) HSN Code for goods or SAC for services;
- (f) description of goods or services or both;
- (g) value of supply of goods or services or both taking into account discount or abatement, if any; and
- (h) signature or digital signature of the supplier or his authorised representative.

In terms of the First Proviso to rule 46, the Central Government vide Notification No. 78/ 2020-Central Tax, dated 15-Oct-2020 had specified the requirement of mentioning the number of digits of HSN code on invoice or bill of supply based on the annual turnover of previous financial year which is provided as under:

Annual Turnover in the preceding Financial Year	Number of Digits of HSN Code
Upto Rs 5 Crores	4 (optional for B2C supply)
More than Rs 5 Crores	6

If the aggregate turnover during the preceding financial year is up to Rs 5 Crores then there is no requirement of mentioning HSN in respect of supplies made to unregistered persons.

It is further provided that, in case of export of goods or services which are exempt under GST, the bill of supply shall carry an endorsement “supply meant for exports/ supply to SEZ developer/ unit for authorised operations under bond or LUT without payment of IGST” and shall specify the following details, namely-

- (i) Name and address of the recipient;
- (ii) Address of delivery; and
- (iii) Name of the country of destination.

It is important to note here that vide Circular No. 45/ 19/ 2018-GST, dated 30-May-2018, it has been clarified that in case of export of exempted or non-GST goods without payment of IGST LUT/ bond is not required. Under such a scenario, a view can be taken that in case of export of exempted goods or services, the bill of supply may carry endorsement as “supply meant for exports/ supply to SEZ developer/ unit for authorised operations”.

It is also clarified in rule 49 that any invoice issued under any other Act in respect of non-taxable supply shall be treated as bill of supply under GST. For example, invoice issued under State VAT Act, for supply of alcoholic liquor meant for human consumption shall be considered as bill of supply for the purpose of GST Act.

Invoice-cum-bill of supply

Rule 46A of CGST Rules, 2017 overrides rule 46, rule 49 and rule 54, to provide that a registered person supplying taxable goods as well as exempted goods or services or both to an unregistered person may issue a single “invoice-cum-bill of supply” for all such supplies.

Provisions relating to issue of documents by registered person can be summarized as follows-

Cases	Document to be issued
Supply of taxable goods or services	Tax Invoice
Supply of exempted goods or services	Bill of supply
Supply of taxable as well as exempted goods or services to un-registered person	Invoice-cum-bill of supply
Supply of taxable as well as exempted goods or services to registered person	Tax Invoice, in respect of taxable supplies Bill of supply in respect of exempted supplies

E-way Bill in case of exempt supplies

Section 68 of CGST Act, 2017 read with rule 138 of CGST Rules, 2017 requires every registered person who causes movement of goods of consignment whose value is exceeding Rs. 50,000/- to generate an e-way bill on the common portal in respect of such supply, before commencement of movement of goods. Explanation 2 to rule 138(1) provides that the consignment value of goods shall be the value, determined in accordance with the provisions of section 15, declared in an invoice, a bill of supply or a delivery challan, as the case may be, issued in respect of the said consignment and also includes the central tax, State or Union territory tax, integrated tax and cess charged, if any, in the document and shall exclude the value of exempt supply of goods where the invoice is issued in respect of both exempt and taxable supply of goods. Thus, the value of exempted goods shall not be considered for the purpose of computing the limit of Rs 50,000. Therefore, in case of pure supply of exempted goods, other than de-oiled cake as specified in rule 138(14) of CGST Act, 2017, no e-way bill is required.

However, rule 55A of CGST Rules, 2017 requires the person-in-charge of the conveyance to carry a copy of the tax invoice or the bill of supply issued in accordance with the provisions of rules 46, 46A or 49 in a case where such person is not required to carry an e-way bill.

Example:

- If a registered person transporting goods of consignment value of Rs. 70,000/- which includes exempt supply of Rs. 30,000/-, then, the e-way bill is not required to be generated because the consignment value is calculated as Rs. 40,000/- which is below the limit of Rs. 50,000/-.
- A registered person transporting exempt goods of consignment value of Rs. 70,000/- is not required to generate e-way bill but the person-in-charge of the conveyance must carry the bill of supply.

Records required to be maintained by supplier of taxable/ exempt supplies

As per section 35(1) of CGST Act, 2017, every registered person shall keep and maintain, at his principal place of business mentioned in its registration certificate, a true and correct account of the following:

- Production and manufacture of goods.
- Inward and outward supply of goods or services or both – Such details should include name and complete addresses of suppliers from whom he has received the goods or services chargeable to tax under the Act.
- Stock of goods – It has been provided that such accounts shall contain particulars of the opening balance, receipt, supply, goods lost, stolen, destroyed, written off or disposed of by way of gift or free sample and the balance of stock including raw materials, finished goods, scrap and wastage thereof.
- Input tax credit availed.
- Output tax payable and paid.
- Such other particulars as may be prescribed.

Thus, every supplier of exempted goods also needs to maintain proper sale purchase register, stock register and manufacturing records.

In addition to the above, rule 56 requires every registered person to keep and maintain the following records-

- Account of the goods or services imported or exported
- Account of supplies attracting payment of tax on reverse charge
- Account of advances received, paid and adjustments made thereto.
- A register of tax delivery challan issued or received during any tax period.

It is important to mention that other requisites of books of accounts including the place at which these are required to be maintained, manner in which these are to be maintained, manner of making entries in registers etc. has to be complied with. Section 36 of CGST Act, 2017 requires a registered person to keep and maintain books of accounts or other records for a period of 72 months from the due date of furnishing the annual return (i.e. 31st December of subsequent financial year) for the year pertaining to such accounts and records. Thus, records for FY 2017-18 are to be maintained till 31st December 2025 or till such further extended date as notified by the Government.

Consequences on Non-Compliances

Section 122 of CGST Act, 2017 provides penalty for certain offences. A registered person supplying exclusively exempted goods or services or both shall have to pay a penalty of Rs. 10,000/- if he fails to keep, maintain or retain books of account and other documents in accordance with the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder.

Specific exemption has been granted to certain supply of services when made by a person to Government and Government bodies. Various exemptions which shall be discussed in this Chapter are as under:

We shall now discuss each of the above exemptions in detail hereunder.

Understanding Important Terms

In order to understand the exemptions, it is important to know certain terms, which are as follows:

- (a) Government: Government as defined in CGST Act and respective SGST Acts means Central Government and respective State governments.

As per article 53 of the Constitution the executive power of the Union shall be vested in the President and shall be exercised by him either directly or indirectly through officers subordinate to him in accordance with the Constitution. Further, in terms of Article 77 of the Constitution all executive actions of the Government of India shall be expressed to be taken in the name of the President. Therefore, “Central Government” means the President and the officers subordinate to him while exercising the executive powers of the Union vested in the President and in the name of the President.

Similarly, as per Article 154 of the Constitution the executive power of the State shall be vested in the Governor and shall be exercised by him either directly or indirectly through officers subordinate to him in accordance with the Constitution. Further, as per Article 166 of the Constitution all executive actions of the Government of State shall be expressed to be taken in the name of Governor. Therefore, “State Government” means the Governor or the officers subordinate to him who exercise the executive power of the State vested in the Governor and in the name of the Governor.

- (b) Local Authority: “Local authority” has been defined in Section 2(69) of the CGST Act and includes bodies like Panchayat, municipality etc.
- (c) Governmental Authority: “Governmental Authority” has been defined in para 2(zf) of Notification No. 12/2017-CT(Rate) to mean an authority or a board or any other body, which is either set up by an Act of Parliament or a State Legislature or established by any Government, with 90 per cent or more participation by way of equity or control, to carry out any function entrusted to a Municipality under Article 243W of the Constitution or to a Panchayat under Article 243G of the Constitution.
- (d) Governmental Entity: “Governmental Entity” has been defined in clause 2(zfa) of Notification No. 12/2017-CT(Rate) to mean an authority or a board or any other body including a society, trust, corporation which is set up by an Act of Parliament or State Legislature or is established by any Government, with 90 per cent or more participation by way of equity or control, to carry out a function entrusted by the Central Government, State Government, Union Territory or a local authority.

We shall now discuss the specific exemptions as under:

I. Pure Services of Labour for functions under Article 243G / 243W

This exemption covers supplies which fulfil the following conditions:

- Supplies should be pure services in nature: Only supplies which are pure services viz., which do not have any element of supply of goods whether as pure supply of goods or as works contract are covered here.
- Supplies should be provided to Central Government, State Government, Union territory or local authority: Thus, sub-contractors when providing the same services to the contractors of government shall not enjoy this exemption. Earlier the exemption was also available when services were provided to Governmental authority or a Government Entity. However, this exemption on services provided to Governmental authority or a Government Entity has been withdrawn vide Notification No. 16/2021-Central Tax (Rate), dated 18-11-2021, w.e.f. 1-1-2022.

It is important to note that while computing such ratio, the common expenses like interest, administrative expenses etc. may either be ignored or be added to goods and service portion of cost in their respective ratios.

It was clarified vide Circular No. 100/19/2019-GST dated 30.04.2019 that charges collected for composite supply of seed testing and certification are exempt and such exemption shall apply to supply of seed tags by seed testing and certification agencies of other states also following similar seed testing and certification procedure.

It is important to mention that the above exemptions shall not be applicable to services (i) by the Department of Posts; (ii) in relation to an aircraft or a vessel, inside or outside the precincts of a port or an airport; (iii) of transport of goods or passengers.

IV. Services by one Government to another

It is possible that one department of a government may supply service to another department or by one government or local authority to another government or local authority. Thus, the present exemption covers all such services except:

- (i) by the Department of Posts;
- (ii) in relation to an aircraft or a vessel, inside or outside the precincts of a port or an airport;
- (iii) of transport of goods or passengers.

3. Exemptions in case of supplies effected by Charitable Trusts, religious institutions/organisations and Not for profit entities

In India, the organizations which carry out their activities without a profit motive have always been provided various concessions in the form of exemption from taxes or provision of various facilities at concessional rates.

Charitable organizations carry out variety of activities in the spheres of education, health care, environment protection and enhancement etc. Religious trusts normally own religious places like temples etc. Income of such organizations are generally received through voluntary contribution (donation) or contribution for specific purposes. Renting of precincts owned by them is also a common source of their income.

Specific exemption has been granted to certain supplies of services when made by a person to Government and Government bodies. Various exemptions which shall be discussed in this Chapter are as under:

Sl. No.	Description of Services
1	Services by an entity registered under section 12AA or 12AB of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (43 of 1961) by way of charitable activities.
13	Services by a person by way of- (a) conduct of any religious ceremony; (b) renting of precincts of a religious place meant for general public, owned or managed by an entity registered as a charitable or religious trust under section 12AA or 12AB of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the Income-tax Act) or a trust or an institution registered under sub clause (v) of clause (23C) of section 10 of the Income-tax Act or a body or an authority covered under clause (23BBA) of section 10 of the Income-tax Act: Provided that nothing contained in entry (b) of this exemption shall apply to, - (i) renting of rooms where charges are one thousand rupees or more per day; (ii) renting of premises, community halls, kalyanmandapam or open area, and the like where charges are ten thousand rupees or more per day; (iii) renting of shops or other spaces for business or commerce where charges are ten thousand rupees or more per month.
80	Services by way of training or coaching in - (a) recreational activities relating to arts or culture, by an individual, or (b) sports by charitable entities registered under section 12AA or 12AB of the Income-tax Act.

I. Charitable Activities

There are two requisites for this exemption.

The entity should be registered under section 12AA or 12AB of the Income-tax Act, 1961

For the aforesaid exemption, the service must be provided by an entity registered under Section 12AA or 12AB of Income Tax Act, 1961. Application for registration is required to be made under Section 12A of Income Tax Act, 1961 and Section 12AA or 12AB of the said Act provides for the procedure of registration of such entities.

Entities registered under Section 12AA or 12AB of the Income-tax Act are eligible to claim exemption under the provisions of Income Tax Act, 1961 subject to certain conditions. Under GST, the only condition is that such entity must be registered under Section 12AA of the Income-tax Act. If, for any reason, entity is not eligible to avail exemption under Income Tax Act for any assessment year but, it continues to be registered, exemption under GST will continue to be available. Also, exemption will be available on or after the date of registration under Section 12AA or 12AB of the Income-tax Act, 1961.

Services should be covered under the ambit of 'charitable activities'

The term 'Charitable activities' has been defined in Notification No. 12/2017 - Central Tax (Rate) dated 28-06-2017 thus:

- (r) “charitable activities” means activities relating to -
 - (i) public health by way of, -
 - (A) care or counselling of
 - (I) terminally ill persons or persons with severe physical or mental disability;
 - (II) persons afflicted with HIV or AIDS;
 - (III) persons addicted to a dependence-forming substance such as narcotics drugs or alcohol; or
 - (B) public awareness of preventive health, family planning or prevention of HIV infection;
 - (ii) advancement of religion, spirituality or yoga;
 - (iii) advancement of educational programmes or skill development relating to, -
 - (A) abandoned, orphaned or homeless children;
 - (B) physically or mentally abused and traumatized persons;
 - (C) prisoners; or
 - (D) persons over the age of 65 years residing in a rural area;
 - (iv) preservation of environment including watershed, forests and wildlife;

Handbook on Exempted Supplies under GST

Thus, all activities for charitable purpose in general, are not exempt under GST unless they are covered in the specific definition above. Therefore, many activities with charitable objects may be subjected to GST as they may not fall under the confined parameters of charitable activities as per this notification.

Under the Income Tax Act, income derived from property held under a trust solely for "charitable purpose" is exempt from tax, to the extent it is applied or accumulated (as per the provisions of Income Tax Act) for charitable purposes in India. In comparison to the term "charitable purpose" defined under 2(15) of the Income Tax Act, 1961, with that of term "charitable activities" defined in exemption notification under GST, following variances can be drawn:

Income Tax Act	Goods and Services Tax Act
Relief of poor	No such inclusion
Preservation of monuments or places or objects of artistic or historic interest	No such inclusion
Education	Advancement of educational programmes or skill development relating to certain specified class of persons
Medical relief	Activities relating to public health by way of - (A) care or counselling of persons with certain specified ailment (B) public awareness of preventive health, family planning or prevention of HIV infection
Advancement of any other object of general public utility subject to certain conditions and monetary limits	No such residual entry. Specific inclusion of advancement of religion, spirituality or yoga.

From the above comparison, it is evident that the definition of "charitable activities" in the exemption notification under GST is very narrow in scope as compared to the definition under Income Tax Act. Therefore, all the activities carried by an entity, availing exemption under Income Tax Act, are not compulsorily exempt under GST. The activities have to be examined considering the definition of charitable activities, as to whether they can be classified as any of the activities specified therein or not and the exemption should be availed only if they are falling under the limited scope of activities defined as charitable activities.

Comparison with erstwhile laws

This entry is similar to Service Tax exemption as provided vide Entry No. 6 of Notification No. 25/2012-ST dated 20.06.2012.

Examples

- (a) X charitable trust (registered under section 12AA of Income Tax Act, 1961) is providing educational services to orphaned children.
- (b) Shri Sanstha (registered under section 12AA of Income Tax Act, 1961) providing counseling services to alcohol addicted persons.

II. Conduct of religious ceremonies

Scope of this exemption entry covers:

- Service provided by - any person
- Nature of service provided - Conduct of religious ceremony
- Condition or threshold limit for exemption - No condition or limit

The significant term in this entry is 'religious ceremony'. This term ' has not been defined under the erstwhile Service Tax Law or under GST Act, but according to a CBEC's Education guide, 'religious ceremonies are life-cycle rituals including special religious poojas conducted in terms of religious texts by a person so authorized by such religious texts. Occasions like birth, marriage and death involve elaborate religious ceremonies.

Also, all income from religious ceremonies are not exempt. During the course of a religious ceremony, if services other than by way of conduct of religious ceremony are provided, such services are not exempt.

III. Renting of precincts of a religious place meant for general public

The term 'Religious place' has been defined to mean a place which is primarily meant for conduct of prayers or worship pertaining to a religion, meditation, or spirituality. Thus, renting of precincts of such place has been exempted. The word 'precincts' has not been defined under the Act. However, CBEC had clarified vide Circular No. 200/10/2016-Service Tax dated 06-09-2016, that the word "Precincts" should be interpreted to consider all immovable property of the religious place located within the outer boundary wall of the complex (of building and facilities) in which religious place is located, as being located in the precincts of the religious place. The immovable property located in the immediate vicinity and surrounding the religious place and owned by the religious place or under the same management as the religious place may be considered as being located in the precincts of religious place.

For this exemption, the precincts of such religious place should be owned or managed by :

- a charitable or religious trust under 12AA or 12AB of Income Tax Act, 1961.
- a trust or an institution registered under section 10(23C) (v) of the Income-tax Act or
- a body or an authority covered under section 10(23BBA) of the said Income-tax Act.

It is important to note here that the above exemption of renting of precincts of a religious place is not applicable where:

- Charges by way of room rent are Rs. 1,000 or more per day.
- Charges for renting of premises, community halls, kalyanamandapam or open area etc. are Rs. 10,000 or more per day.
- Charges for renting of shops or commercial spaces are Rs. 10,000 or more per month.

Examples

- (a) Shri Jagdish Ji, a priest, charged Rs. 21,000/- from Mr. X for carrying out the rituals of his marriage ceremony.

IV. Training or Coaching in Recreational Activities

This exemption has been discussed in detail under the head “Exemption in case of services received for personal consumption / recreation”.

4. Exemptions in case of associations and clubs

Clubs or associations are established in different forms of organizations. They may be registered as a society under Societies Registration Act or as a trust or as a company under Section 25 of Companies Act, 2013. A society is the most common form of organization opted by associations or clubs. The bye laws of the organization provide the manner and procedure of enrolment of members and objects of the association. The clubs or associations generally provide different types of services, some of which are:

- Sports facilities
- Organization of events or tournaments
- Renting of mandap, banquets or grounds for events
- Facility of library, conference hall etc.
- Short term accommodation facilities
- Supply of food and drinks at restaurants

Concept of Mutuality and GST

From a combined reading of Section 7 and definition of business as provided in CGST Act, it is clear that provision of facilities or benefits by clubs or associations is business but the question, whether provision of an activity, which is covered under the definition of business, by a person to himself will be considered as supply or the principle of mutuality will hold, is still unanswered.

Since the expression 'supply' does not warrant provision of supply by a person to another person, it can be interpreted that provision of an activity by a person covered in the definition of business will be considered as a supply. Also, the notifications issued by the government indicate an intent that services provided by such associations have to be considered as supply and chargeable to tax as per provisions of the Act.

Supply of goods by clubs or associations

Schedule II to CGST Act deals with activities or transactions to be treated as supply of goods or supply of services. Para 7 to Schedule II specifically provides as under:

“The following shall be treated as supply of goods, namely:—

Supply of goods by any unincorporated association or body of persons to a member thereof for cash, deferred payment or other valuable consideration.”

In view of the above, supply of goods or services by associations or clubs to its members are covered under the ambit of supply for levy of GST.

However, Para 7 has been omitted by the Finance Act, 2021. The Government has also amended Section 7 of the CGST Act to introduce a specific clause (1aa) to provide for deemed taxability of transaction between members and association inter se. The relevant entry as introduced w.e.f. 1-7-2017 is as follows –

(aa) the activities or transactions, by a person, other than an individual, to its members or constituents or vice versa, for cash, deferred payment or other valuable consideration.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause, it is hereby clarified that, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force or any judgment, decree or order of any Court, tribunal or authority, the person and its members or constituents shall be deemed to be two separate persons and the supply of activities or transactions inter se shall be deemed to take place from one such person to another;

Having discussed the taxability, we shall now discuss the exemptions given to associations.

Relevant Exemption notification [Notification No. 12/2017-Central Tax (Rate)]

A. Exemption entry

(a) Trade unions

Service provided by any non-profit entity to its members by way of reimbursement of charges or share of contribution as a trade union is exempt from tax. Under the exemption notification under GST, trade union is defined thus:

(zzn) "trade union" has the same meaning as assigned to it in clause (h) of section 2 of the Trade Unions Act, 1926 (16 of 1926);

As per Section 2(h) of the Trade Unions Act, 1926 (16 of 1926), "Trade Union" means any combination, whether temporary or permanent, formed primarily for the purpose of regulating the relations between workmen and employers or between workmen and workmen, or between employers and employers, or for imposing restrictive conditions on the conduct of any trade or business, and includes any Federation of two or more Trade Unions.

(b) Contribution from members for an exempt activity

Reimbursements or share of contribution collected by such entities from their members, for provision of carrying out any activity which in itself is exempt from the levy of Goods and service Tax, are also exempt from GST by virtue of this entry of the notification.

(c) Resident Welfare Associations (RWAs)

The management of residential societies is generally in the hands of co-operative housing societies. As an alternate of forming a society, in some places, Resident Welfare Associations are formed for group of buildings. The services provided by the RWAs include organizing supply of electricity and water, cleaning of common areas, maintenance and upkeep of the building, payment of municipal taxes etc.

The association raises contributions from all the members to provide these facilities. The contribution is generally decided in the meetings of the association. Residential complex has been defined under the exemption notification as under:

(zzb) "residential complex" means any complex comprising of a building or buildings, having more than one single residential unit;

In respect of such exemption under Service tax regime, CBEC had clarified, vide Circular No. 175/01 /2014 – ST, dated 10th January, 2014, that if per month per member contribution of any or some members of a RWA exceeds five thousand rupees, the entire contribution of such members whose per month contribution exceeds five thousand rupees would be ineligible for the exemption under the said notification. Service tax would then be leviable on the aggregate amount of monthly contribution of such members.

On the basis of references drawn from such clarification for similar exemption under GST, it is implied that if the contribution of any member exceeds INR 7500 per month per member, then the entire contribution of such member would be ineligible for exemption under GST.

It is also important to note that this exemption covers only such services by the housing society or a body of the residential complex, which are provided for the common use of its members. Thus, if any service is provided by such body on individual basis on payment of fee, such service would not be exempt. For example, when security is made available on individual request by members, it would not be exempt.

Requirement of registration for housing societies/RWAs

An important question that arises is if an RWA provides certain services such as payment of electricity or water bill issued by third person, for its members, is exclusion from value of supply available for the purposes of computation of aggregate turnover for purpose of registration or ITC reversal?

Section 2(6) of Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 defines 'aggregate turnover' thus:

(6) "aggregate turnover" means the aggregate value of all taxable supplies (excluding the value of inward supplies on which tax is payable by a person on reverse charge basis), exempt supplies, exports of goods or services or both and inter-State supplies of persons having the same Permanent Account Number, to be computed on all India basis but excludes central tax, State tax, Union territory tax, integrated tax and cess;

It means the amount of exempt supplies is also included in the aggregate turnover.

Some common issues are tabulated hereunder:

Issue	Suggestion
Case I : Where an electricity bill is raised in the name of the member in respect of electricity consumed by him and payment is collected and paid by the RWA to the utility without charging any other consideration.	RWA is acting as a pure agent; the amount collected for payment of such bill can be excluded from the value of supply.
Case II : Electricity bill is issued in the name of RWA, in respect of electricity consumed for common use of lifts, motor pumps for water supply, lights in common area etc.	Since there is no agency involved, exclusion from value of supply would not be available. Note : This poses an issue that an RWA would have to be registered if aggregate turnover including such exempt supplies exceeds rupees 20 lakhs and the RWA would not be eligible for ITC in respect of inputs, input services or capital goods in respect of such exempt supplies.

B. Comparison with erstwhile law

The first two clauses of this exemption entry in respect of trade union and provision of carrying out any activity which is exempt from the levy of tax, are similar to exemption in service tax as provided under Entry No. 28 of Notification No. 25/2012-ST dated 20.06.2012.

Although, services of RWA were exempt upto an amount of INR 5,000 per month per month in service tax the limit has been extended to INR 7500 per month per member under GST.

In pre-GST period, ITC of Central Excise and VAT paid on goods and capital goods was not available and these were costs to the RWA, but under GST, RWAs will be entitled to ITC in respect of taxes paid by them on capital goods, inputs and input services.

C. Examples

- (1) Service provided by an RWA by way of -
- Payment of electricity bills in the name of its members or in the name of RWA for common area - Exempt under Entry 77 of Notification No. 12/2017 - Central Tax (Rate)
 - Provision of facility of cleaning or security services for common use of members are exempt under Entry 77 of Notification No. 12/2017 - Central Tax (Rate), subject to threshold of Rs. 7500 per month per member. This is also clarified vide Circular No. 109/28/2019-GST dated 23.07.2019.

Services provided by an unincorporated body or a non-profit entity registered under any law for the time being in force to its own members against consideration in the form of membership fee upto an amount of one thousand rupees (Rs. 1000) per member per year.

Conditions to be met to avail the exemptions

1. The maximum limit of consideration is Rs. 1000; if the amount of consideration is more than Rs. 1000/- then the exemption will not be applicable.
2. The amount has to be collected from the members of the entity and not from the non-members or the general public.
3. The entity should be engaged in any of the following activities: -

 - (ii) activities relating to welfare of agricultural labour
 - (iii) activities relating to welfare of farmers;
 - (iv) promotion of trade, commerce, industry, agriculture, art, science, literature, culture, sports, education, social welfare, charitable activities and protection of environment.

5. Exemptions in case of Education and allied Services

"Education" is not defined in the CGST Act but as per Supreme Court decision in Sole Trustee, Loka Shikshana Trust v. CIT [1975] 101 ITR 234, education is the process of training and developing knowledge, skill mind and character of students by normal schooling. Education in its general sense is a form of learning in which knowledge, skills and habits of a group of people are transferred from one generation to the next through teaching, training or research. Any experience that has a formative effect on the way one thinks or acts may be considered as education.

Taxing the Education Sector has always been a sensitive issue, as education is seen more as a social activity than a business one. The government has a constitutional obligation to provide free and compulsory elementary education to every child. Thus, to promote education, it would be beneficial if educational services are exempt from tax. However, commercialisation of education is also a reality. The distinction between core and ancillary education is blurring and education is now an organised industry with huge revenues. The GST Act tries to maintain a fine balance whereby core educational services provided and received by educational institutions are exempt and other services are sought to be taxed.

Meaning of “education as a part of curriculum for obtaining a qualification recognized by law”

It means that only such educational services are in the negative list as are related to delivery of education as 'a part' of the curriculum that has been prescribed for obtaining a qualification prescribed by law. It is important to understand that to be in the negative list the service should be delivered as part of curriculum. Conduct of degree courses by colleges, universities or institutions which lead to the grant of qualifications recognized by law would be covered. Training given by private coaching institutes would not be covered as such training does not lead to grant of a recognized qualification.

b. By an educational institution by way of conduct of entrance examination

Exemption has been granted to services by an educational institution by way of conduct of entrance examination against consideration in the form of entrance fee. Entrance fee charged from prospective students is exempt under GST.

According to Census 2011, India has 55 million potential workers between the age of 15 and 35 years in rural areas. At the same time, the world is expected to face a shortage of 57 million workers by 2020. This presents a historic opportunity for India to transform its demographic surplus into a demographic dividend. The Ministry of Rural Development implements DDU-GKY to drive this national agenda for inclusive growth, by developing skills and productive capacity of the rural youth from poor families.

There are several challenges preventing India's rural poor from competing in the modern market, such as the lack of formal education and marketable skills. All the courses should be certified by the National Council for Vocational Training.

It has been clarified that Healthcare services have been defined to mean any service by way of diagnosis or treatment or care for illness, injury, deformity, abnormality or pregnancy in any recognised system of medicines in India [para 2(zg) of Notification No. 12/2017- CT(Rate)]. Therefore, hospitals also provide healthcare services. However, a proviso has been inserted which provides that exemption shall not be applicable when services are provided by a clinical establishment by way of providing room [other than Intensive Care Unit (ICU)/Critical Care Unit (CCU)/Intensive Cardiac Care Unit (ICCU)/Neo natal Intensive Care Unit (NICU)] having room charges exceeding Rs. 5000 per day to a person receiving health care services. Such services have been made taxable @ 5% vide Notification No.: 3/2022-Central tax (Rate) dated 13-07-2022.

It was clarified vide Circular No. 51/25/2018-GST dated 31.07.2018, that ambulance services are an activity in relation to the functions entrusted to Panchayats and Municipalities under Articles 243G and 243W of the Constitution and thus clarification contained in the Circular No. 210/2/2018- Service Tax dated 30th May, 2018 in respect of the services provided by Government and Private Services Providers (PSPs) by way of transportation of patients in an ambulance is applicable for the purpose of GST also.

When outsourced, there should be no ambiguity that the suppliers shall charge tax as applicable and hospital will get no ITC. If hospitals have their own canteens and prepare their own food then no ITC will be available on inputs including capital goods and in turn if they supply food to the doctors and their staff; such supplies, even when not charged, may be subjected to GST.

Food supplied to the in-patients as advised by the doctor/nutritionists is a part of composite supply of healthcare and not separately taxable. Other supplies of food by a hospital to patients (not admitted) or their attendants or visitors are taxable.

“Goods transport” agency has been defined as under :

- (ze) “goods transport agency” means any person who provides service in relation to transport of goods by road and issues consignment note, by whatever name called;

What is GTA and how is it different from Goods Transport Operator

The speech of the Union Finance Minister when the GTA was brought into tax net, specifically clarified vide Para 149 that the intent was to levy tax on Transport agent and not to tax the truck operators/owners.

The issue was settled in the case C.C.E. & C., Guntur v. Kanaka Durga Agro Oil Products Pvt. Ltd. 2009 (15) S.T.R. 399 (Tri. - Bang.) where it was held that Service tax paid for services of individual truck operators is not liable on the basis of clarification given by Finance Minister and interpretation of the definition "agent". However, this judgment did not discuss the concept of "any person" in the definition of “Goods Transport Agency” being provided specifically.

However, there was a contrary decision rendered in case of C.C.E., Salem v. Suibramania Siva Co-Op. Sugar Mills Ltd. (2014) 35 S.T.R. 500 (Mad.) where the Madras High Court held that "any person" would cover all kinds of persons which also covers individual truck owners and also held that speech of Finance Minister cannot be taken in aid for understanding the scope of the clear terms of the provisions in the taxation laws.

Thus, the issue whether truck owners or operators (in case they issue a consignment note) would attract levy of GST for transportation of goods by road, is open to question.

Services provided by Individual Truck operators

A single truck owner-operator is plying his truck mostly between States, carrying goods booked for his truck by an agent; the aggregate value of service provided by him exceeded twenty lakh rupees during a financial year. The truck owner is not liable to registration, as services provided by way of transportation of goods by road are exempt.

Registration is also not required in case of services by way of giving on hire; transportation of goods to a GTA is exempt from tax vide entry no. 22 of Notification number 12/2017-Central Tax (Rate) dated 28th June, 2017.

Whether ancillary services of GTA constitute “different services”

The GTA provides service to a person in relation to transportation of goods by road in a goods carriage, which is a composite service. The composite service may include various intermediary and ancillary services, such as, loading/unloading, packing/unpacking, transshipment and temporary warehousing, which are provided in the course of transport of goods by road. These services are not provided as independent services but as ancillary to the principal service, namely, transportation of goods by road. The invoice issued by the GTA for providing the said service includes the value of intermediary and ancillary services. In view of this, if any intermediary and ancillary service is provided in relation to transportation of goods by road, and charges, if any, for such services are included in the invoice issued by the GTA, such service would form part of the GTA service and would not be treated as a separate supply. In fact, any service provided along with the GTA service that is part of the composite service of GTA shall be taxed along with GTA service and not as separate supplies. However, if such incidental services are provided as separate services and charged separately, whether in the same invoice or separate invoices, they shall be treated as separate supplies.

Examples

- A Ltd. receives goods from a GTA in a truck. No other goods are loaded in that truck. A Ltd. pays freight of Rs. 1500/- to GTA. It is exempt since total freight for the consignment in single carriage is Rs.1500 (does not exceed 1500).
- A Ltd. receives goods from a GTA in a truck. Some other goods not belonging to A Ltd. are also loaded in the truck. A Ltd. pays freight of Rs. 900/- to GTA. The freight of other goods is Rs. 500/-. As the total freight for the truck is Rs. 1400 (does not exceed 1500), it is exempt.
- In (2) above, if the freight of other goods is Rs. 700/-, then the total freight for the truck is Rs. 1600. Freight for a single consignee (A Ltd.) is Rs. 900 (does not exceed 750) and total freight for the consignment in single carriage is Rs.1600 (exceeds Rs. 1500). Therefore, exemption is not available and A Ltd. should pay tax on Rs. 900/-.

VIII. Transportation of goods by GTA when provided to unregistered persons

Services provided by a goods transport agency to an unregistered person, including an unregistered casual taxable person, other than the following recipients are exempt from tax:

- (a) any factory registered under or governed by the Factories Act, 1948 (63 of 1948); or
- (b) any Society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (21 of 1860) or under any other law for the time being in force in any part of India; or
- (c) any Co-operative Society established by or under any law for the time being in force; or
- (d) any body corporate established, by or under any law for the time being in force; or
- (e) any partnership firm whether registered or not under any law including association of persons;
- (f) any casual taxable person registered under the Central Goods and Services Tax Act or the Integrated Goods and Services Tax Act or the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act.

Prior to 13.10.2017, GTAs were liable to pay GST on the service provided to unregistered persons. This was creating lot of workload and inconvenience to GTAs. Therefore, exemption was given to GTAs for the service provided to un-registered persons.

Examples

Export freight charged by ABC Shipping Line (India) for transportation of goods by vessel from India to Canada

IX. Services by GTA to specified CG/SG/Local Authority/Government agencies

The fact that services provided by goods transport agency to unregistered persons is exempt has already been discussed above. However, there are certain departments of the government or local authority or government agencies which are not otherwise registered for making taxable supplies but due to the provisions of TDS under the GST law. The provisions of TDS as per Section 51 require certain category of persons to take registration and deduct TDS under the GST law. Quite a number of Departments of Central Government and State Government, local authority and government agencies get covered within this. These persons only possess TDS registration but not the normal registration under GST. Any services provided by GTA to these persons will be exempted.

Example: Ministry of Commerce takes the services of a goods transport agency for transportation of construction materials to its site for renovation of its building. Such services by GTAs will stand exempted.

X. Service by way of access to a road or a bridge on payment of toll charges.

No GST has been levied on the road or bridge on which toll charges are to be paid by the person passing through such toll.

In BOT (Toll) projects, part of the cost is borne by a private person. NHAI collects toll for the usage of road or bridge.

XI. Service by way of access to a road or a bridge on payment of annuity.

This exemption has been withdrawn vide Notification No. 15/2022 -Central Tax (Rate), dated 30-12-2022, w.e.f. 01-01-2023. Earlier it covered following supplies:

BOT (Annuity) projects provide that all the costs are borne by the government in the form of deferred budgetary payments. In BOT-Annuity, the developer constructs the road, maintains it and gets fixed payment from the government.

No GST has been levied on the road or bridge on which annuity charges have to be paid by the person passing through the road.

It was clarified vide Circular No. 150/06/2021-GST dated 17.06.2021, that Entry 23A of notification No.12/2017-CT(R) does not exempt GST on the annuity (deferred payments) paid for construction of roads.

II. Services relating to agriculture

Exemption has been given to specified services relating to cultivation of plants and rearing of all life forms of animals, except the rearing of horses, for food, fibre, fuel, raw material or other similar products or agricultural produce. Such services should be by way of—

- (a) agricultural operations directly related to production of any agricultural produce including cultivation, harvesting, threshing, plant protection or testing;
- (b) supply of farm labour;
- (c) processes carried out at an agricultural farm including tending, pruning, cutting, harvesting, drying, cleaning, trimming, sun drying, fumigating, curing, sorting, grading, cooling or bulk packaging and such like operations which do not alter the essential characteristics of agricultural produce but make it only marketable for the primary market;
- (d) renting or leasing of agro machinery or vacant land with or without a structure incidental to its use;
- (e) loading, unloading, packing, storage or warehousing of agricultural produce;
- (f) agricultural extension services. The term 'agricultural extension' has been defined in Para 2(c) of Notification No. 12/2017-Central Tax (Rate) dated 20.06.2017 to mean application of scientific research and knowledge to agricultural practices through farmer education or training';
- (g) services by any Agricultural Produce Marketing Committee or Board or services provided by a commission agent for sale or purchase of agricultural produce;
- (h) services by way of fumigation in a warehouse of agricultural produce. This has been Omitted by the Notification No. 4/2022 -Central Tax (Rate), dated 13-7-2022, w.e.f. 18-7-2022]

Services by way of erection or construction of original works pertaining to mechanised food grain handling system, machinery or equipment for units processing agricultural produce would be exempt from GST.

The term "Agriculture" has not been defined under GST Act. Under Section 65B-Clause (3) of the Finance Act, 1994, it has been defined as the cultivation of plants and rearing of all life-forms of animals, except the rearing of horses, for food, fiber, fuel, raw material or other similar products. However, under GST law, this meaning of agriculture has been incorporated in the definition of agricultural produce as defined below :

"Agricultural produce" as defined in Para 2(d) of Notification No. 12/2017-Central Tax (Rate) dated 20.06.2017 means any produce out of cultivation of plants and rearing of all life forms of animals, except the rearing of horses, for food, fibre, fuel, raw material or other similar products, on which either no further processing is done or such processing is done as is usually done by a cultivator or producer which does not alter its essential characteristics but makes it marketable for primary market;

“Agricultural Produce Marketing Committee or Board” as defined in Para 2(e) of Notification No. 12/2017-Central Tax (Rate) dated 20.06.2017 means any committee or board constituted under a State law for the time being in force for the purpose of regulating the marketing of agricultural produce;

‘Renting in relation to immovable property’ as defined in Para 2(zz) of Notification No. 12/2017-Central Tax (Rate) dated 20.06.2017 means allowing, permitting or granting access, entry, occupation, use or any such facility, wholly or partly, in an immovable property, with or without the transfer of possession or control of the said immovable property and includes letting, leasing, licensing or other similar arrangements in respect of immovable property.

Extracts from Sl. No. 4.4 of the Taxation of Services-An Education Guide dated 20.06.2012 published under erstwhile Service Tax Law:

- Activities like breeding of fish (pisciculture), rearing of silk worms (sericulture), cultivation of ornamental flowers (floriculture) and horticulture, forestry are also included in the definition of agriculture.
- Plantation crops like rubber, tea or coffee are covered under agricultural produce.
- Specified processes like tending, pruning, grading, sorting etc. carried out at the farm or elsewhere are also exempted as long as they do not alter the essential characteristics of agricultural produce but make it only marketable for the primary market.
- Cleaning of wheat carried out outside the farm is exempt as such activity does not alter the essential characteristics of agricultural produce. However, shelling of paddy is not exempted as this process is never done on a farm as is usually done by a cultivator or producer but in a rice sheller normally located away from the farm. However, if shelling is done by way of a service i.e. on job work then the same would be covered under the exemption relating to ‘carrying out of intermediate production process as job work in relation to agriculture’
- Potato chips or tomato ketchup do not qualify as agricultural produce because in terms of the definition of agricultural produce, only such processing should be carried out as is usually done by a cultivator or producer which does not alter its essential characteristics but makes it marketable for primary market. Potato chips or tomato ketchup are manufactured through processes which alter the essential characteristic of farm produce (potatoes and tomatoes in this case).
- Agricultural products like cereals, pulses, copra and jaggery will be covered in the ambit of ‘agricultural produce’ since certain amount of processing done on these products by a person other than a cultivator or producer are those processes which are usually done by a cultivator or producer.

- Processes of grinding, sterilizing, extraction packaging in retail packs of agricultural products, which make the agricultural products marketable in retail market are not exempted because only those processes are exempted which make agricultural produce marketable in the primary market.
- Leasing of vacant land with a green house or a storage shed meant for agricultural produce is exempt because such structure is incidental to its use for agriculture.
- Agricultural Produce Marketing Committees or Boards are set up under a State Law for purpose of regulating the marketing of agricultural produce. Such marketing committees or boards have been set up in most of the States and provide a variety of support services for facilitating the marketing of agricultural produce by provision of facilities and amenities like, sheds, water, light, electricity, grading facilities etc. They also take measures for prevention of sale or purchase of agricultural produce below the minimum support price. APMCs collect market fees, license fees, rents etc. Services provided by such Agricultural Produce Marketing Committee or Board are covered in the negative list. However, any service provided by such bodies which is not directly related to agriculture or agricultural produce will be liable to tax e.g., renting of shops or other property.

III. Services of intermediate process in relation to agriculture

Exemption has been given to services by way of carrying out an intermediate production process as job work in relation to cultivation of plants and rearing of all life forms of animals, except the rearing of horses, for food, fibre, fuel, raw material or other similar products or agricultural produce.

The word “Job Work” has been defined under CGST Act under section 2(68) to mean “any treatment or process undertaken by a person on goods belonging to another registered person and the expression “Job Worker” shall be construed accordingly.”

It is thus, evident that “Job Worker” means a person who gets raw material/intermediate goods from the principal manufacturer and carries out any process thereon. For the purpose of job work, 'principal' means a registered person who sends any inputs or capital goods, to a job worker for job-work.

If need be reference can be made to Serial No 30 of Notification No 25/2012 dated 20/06/2012 issued under Service Tax Law which grants exemption to intermediate production process carried out by job worker.

IV. Services by way of slaughtering of animals

V. Services by way of specified activities on in-store agricultural goods

Exemption has been granted to services by way of pre-conditioning, pre-cooling, ripening, waxing, retail packing, labeling of fruits and vegetables which do not change or alter the essential characteristics of the said fruits or vegetables. These activities are usually undertaken in the storage facility near the market for such fruits or vegetables. The activities aim to provide shelf life or marketability to such fruits and vegetables.

A country may have several types of diplomatic missions in another country:

An embassy is a diplomatic mission generally located in the capital city of another country which offers a full range of services, including consular services.

A high commission is an embassy of a Commonwealth country located in another Commonwealth country.

A permanent mission is a diplomatic mission to a major international organization.

A Consulate General is a diplomatic mission located in a major city, usually other than the capital city, which provides a full range of consular services.

A consulate is a diplomatic mission that is similar to a consulate general, but may not provide a full range of services.

A consulate headed by an Honorary Consul is a diplomatic mission headed by an Honorary Consul which provides only a limited range of services.

As well as being a diplomatic mission to the country in which it is situated, it may also be a non-resident permanent mission to one or more other countries. There are thus both resident and non-resident embassies.

The Vienna Convention states:

The functions of a diplomatic mission consist, inter alia, in representing the sending State in the receiving State; protecting in the receiving State the interests of the sending State and of its nationals, within the limits permitted by international law; negotiating with the Government of the receiving State; ascertaining by all lawful means conditions and developments in the receiving State, and reporting thereon to the Government of the sending State; promoting friendly relations between the sending State and the receiving State, and developing their economic, cultural and scientific relations.

Chapter VII

Conclusion

Exemptions can be traced to section 11 of CGST Act and corresponding provisions of SGST Act / UTGST Act. In terms of section 11, the power to grant exemption vests in the Government, only when it is necessary in public interest with Council's recommendations as a precondition. Exemptions may be of the following types:

- General exemption
- Absolute exemption
- Conditional exemption
- Complete or partial exemption

General exemption is one which is available unconditionally, whereas a conditional exemption may be subject to circumstances or subject to conditions. For example, general exemption is one which may be granted to outward supply of 'footwear', whereas a conditional exemption is one which is granted subject to identified conditions such as outward supply of 'leather footwear'. Here, either 'all footwear' are exempted under this general exemption whether made of leather or rubber, whereas, conditional exemption is a circumstance or situation where it is restricted only to footwear made of leather.

Conditional exemption is one where the exemption is traceable, among other conditions to (a) class of persons (b) kinds of persons (c) specific persons (d) class of products / services (e) kinds of products / services (f) specific products / services (g) value based exemption (h) area based exemption (i) period based exemption (j) turnover based exemption (k) rate based exemption (l) circumstance based exemption etc.

Absolute exemptions granted by the Government under section 11(1) are not optional, whereas conditional exemptions are optional. It is important to make this differentiation carefully. Thus, general exemptions are normally absolute in nature since, such exemptions are not fettered like conditional exemptions. For example, the rate of GST of 5 per cent without input tax credit availability (say, HSN 9985(i)), will not be an option that one can deviate from and pay 18 per cent only to enjoy input tax credit. This is an example of a condition that is absolute and cannot be deviated from. However, rate of GST at 5 per cent without input tax credit 'or' 18 per cent with input tax credit (say, HSN 9966(i)). So, care must be taken to identify whether it is an "absolute exemption or not" as the notification itself does not declare to be one or the other. As can be seen from the above example, Notification No. 12/2017-CT(R) itself operates as 'absolute and not' based on the language of each entry.

Apart from granting exemptions by notification, the Government is empowered to exempt goods and / or services, by way of issue of a special order, in a specific case, indicating certain circumstances of exceptional nature, to exempt from payment of tax.

Exemption may be from the levy itself or merely from the payment of the levy. This may be seen from the statements made in the notification itself as to the circumstances of its issuance.

Normally, exemptions are understood to mean that there will be no levy or charge on the supply of goods and / or services. However, in the GST regime, when the levy or charge is reduced wholly or partly, it is termed as exempt supply and not non-leviable supply.

Importantly, whenever goods or services are wholly exempt from tax (either from the levy or from its payment), the corresponding input tax credit will not be permitted to be enjoyed due to the expansive language in section 17(2) of CGST Act. So also, when the exemption is granted by way of a reduction in the rate of tax (subject to conditions), the credit overflow, if any, will either stand restricted by the same notification or by notification traceable to section 54 of CGST Act.

Also, it may be noted that the Government is empowered to make an amendment to an exemption already issued, but within one year, by inserting an explanation that will take retrospective effect. And such explanation must be to clarify the scope of the underlying exemption. Notification No. 23/2018-CT(R) is a case in point as it is a notification issued under section 11(3) of the CGST Act which became operative an year ago. However, care must be taken not to misapply the insertion of an explanation that is not under section 11(3) of CGST Act. Notification No. 24/2018-CT(R) is a case on this point where explanation has been inserted for Sl.no.234 (valuation of renewable energy systems) to Notification No. 12/2017-CT(R) which, although an insertion of explanation, will only operate prospectively. Care must be taken to correctly apply the insertion of such a clarificatory explanation under section 11(3) of CGST Act.

It is a settled position of law that every exemption must be strictly construed. Therefore, one has to read the “language” employed very carefully before availing the exemption. In case exemptions were mistakenly availed, output tax will be recovered when this mistake comes to light, but the input tax credit that was not availed (due to this mistake) would stand lost (subject to time limit in section 16(4) of CGST Act). Another class of mistake, is to pay output tax when exemption was available. In such case, the output tax credit that was wrongly collected from customers will need to be deposited but the input tax credit will stand denied. As net tax was only deposited (due to this mistake) the input tax credit that is denied will also become recoverable. Care must be taken to avail exemptions, only where exemptions are rightly available.

This publication offers an insight in respect of exemptions under the GST laws. There may arise several issues or situations for interpretation which may not have been addressed in this Publication since the topic is vast. This publication has been brought out, with the hope that it will elicit debate amongst readers and trigger thoughts about situations that could be business sensitive.
